County threatens to end sheriff's service

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus residents soon may find themselves without the police protection and services now provided under a contract with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

Action to terminate police services to Romulus was passed Thursday by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, if the city does not settle an outstanding debt of $853,502.51 within 60 days.

The Board of Commissioners acted on a resolution submitted to it by the Public Safety and Judiciary Committee, according to William Suzore, board member and chairman of the committee.

Previously, the Wayne County Board of Auditors had urged commissioners to terminate police services to Romulus unless the outstanding bill for those services were paid, said Richard T. Kelly, chairman of that body.

Controversy over money which the county claims is owed by Romulus for police services has been raging for many months.

A bill sent by the Board of Auditors July 18, 1979, showed the city owed $785,193.65 at that time and explained that future increases in billing would result from salary increases granted in a new labor contract with deputies, which took effect July 1, 1979.

The bill sent to the city in July also showed that $373,881 of the total amount owed represented adjustments made for salary increases to deputies under the previous labor contract which went into effect July 1, 1977.

From December 1978 through April 1979 the bill showed that the city had been making monthly payments of $101,320 for four units of police services, plus a monthly payment of $7,170.97 for services of two detectives and one police officer.

According to Board of Auditor figures, the city should have been paying $127,421.67 and $8,830.83, respectively, in monthly payments for the police services from December 1978 through June 1979.

According to the July 18, 1979, bill sent by the county, the city had not made any payments in May and June of this year.

A memorandum accompanying the bill explained to the city that the latest labor contract negotiated with deputies would boost monthly payments for the two police services to $133, 418.32 and $9,227.08 after July 1, 1979.

Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley said the city repeatedly has asked for an itemized breakdown of money it owes under the contract — in fact, twice this year.

He said he had asked for "documented figures" in August, but did not receive them. Again in September, Oakley said he went to the county and was assured there would be no problem in getting the information he requested.

"So far, I haven't gotten it," he said.

The mayor objects to the county sending a bill which was not itemized and which he contends to be some $32,000 in error in monthly charges.

Although the Enterprise had no documents other than the bill showing $785,193.65 due as of June of this year, Chairman Kelly of the Board of Auditors verified the outstanding balance owed as of Nov. 6, 1979, by Romulus for police services to be $853,502.51.

Suzore, who represents the communities of Lincoln Park and Southgate and part of Taylor on the Board of Commissioners, said the controversy over police service payments by Romulus has been a long-time on-going affair.

He commented: "Romulus doesn't know whether it has $1 or $20 million in the till. It is using the bankruptcy of Wayne County to finance their deficit."

Told that Oakley had made efforts to get documented figures from the county, he said: "They keep talking to the auditors when they should be talking to the commissioners."

Suzore said the old contract, which expired Dec. 31, 1977, stated that police services could not be discontinued to Romulus unless a 12-month notice was given.

"However, since the contract has expired, it is a moot point whether a judge would rule that the clause still would be good today," he emphasized.

Suzore also said that the action taken last week by the Board of Commissioners specified that after paying its bill for police services up to date, Romulus would have to

State recognition

Beautification panel wins award

Betty Kitchens recently received the Keep Michigan Beautiful Distinguished Service Award on behalf of the Romulus Beautification Committee at a ceremony in Lansing.

Mrs. Kitchens, past chairperson of the Romulus committee, was among 18 other award recipients honored at the annual banquet, sponsored by KMB, in recognition of outstanding beautification projects throughout the state.

Mrs. Kitchens met with James L. Risher, KMB president, and Laura Wonacott, Michigan's Junior Miss from Elk Rapids, Mich.

Others attending the conference from the Romulus Beautification Committee were current chairperson Midge Prybyla, Grace Boc and Carla Lee Barker. Other committee members are Noeline Suessine, Dorothy Phenix and Judy Rakotz. Jean Voight also was a member of the group during the contest judging period.

Each year, Keep Michigan Beautiful Inc. honors those whose work in their communities has helped either with the overall beautification of the area or whose efforts have been directed toward anti-litter control or anti-vandalism programs. Award entries are submitted each summer and are judged by the KMB Awards Committee, a group of volunteers selected by the KMB Board of Directors.

Nominations received by KMB Inc. include individuals, organizations, local governmental units, communities, schools, the media and industries. The annual recognition encourages award winners to continue their volunteer efforts and helps encourage others to do the same.

Romulus received its award in recognition of the massive spring clean-up effort sponsored by the Beautification Committee last May. Next year the committee will be eligible for the more prestigious "Michigan Plaques" which are presented only after a group already has won the Distinguished Service Award.

CUFA: Breakdown of Bureaucracy

This is the second in a series of articles to deal in depth, with the operations of Communities United For Action Inc. (CUFA).

Chartered by the Federal Community Services Administration (CSA) in 1971, CUFA like similar agencies across the country is charged with the administration of programs funded by federal, state and local governments to alleviate the suffering of seniors, the handicapped and the poor.

These reports are not an attempt to place blame, rather they are an attempt to identify serious problems which have been allowed to grow unchecked and now threaten to deprive the very people CUFA's programs were targeted to help.

This series was researched by ANP Staff Writer Carrie Young over a period of three months, and is written by Miss Young and ANP Managing Editor D. G. Fassett.

CUFA is the story. CUFA is the source. Associated Newspapers is the vehicle through which this series is provided for our readers.

What do John Jenks, a CUFA employee, and Westland resident Gene Akers have in common?

One feels cheated, the other feels he has been ripped off.

Jenks, (not his real name) applied for assistance from CUFA to help pay his gas bills, and although that assistance was approved, only half of it was ever credited to his account, according to officials of Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.

Akers appealed to CUFA for home winterization assistance, and while his request was approved, all he has now to show for it is a basement littered with insulation and a jagged hole in his bedroom ceiling, where a CUFA employee fell through it.

"We don't know what they're doing, it's that simple," said Bob Behrman, field representative for the Community Service Administration (CSA), CUFA's parent federal funding agency. Behrman is one of eight regional monitoring agents for community action agencies in Michigan and Wisconsin.

"If the CUFA people error, or the money goes into someone's pocket, we have to rely on the auditing firm they (the local administering agencies) hire to tell us what's going on," Behrman said.

However, according to CUFA's auditors, Henry Martin and Company, its books and records are "a nightmare," rendering audits nearly impossible.

Illustrating that point, Martin's firm last year selected a sample of 95 client case files from a master list of 800 names for review. Of those files, 32 could not even be located by CUFA employees, according to Martin.

"And in many instances the balance of the files were incomplete," he added.

But Jenks and Akers could care less.

Akers, disabled and living on a fixed income, applied to CUFA for help in weatherizing his home last spring. In spite of repeated promises from CUFA's energy coordinator that his home would be promptly inspected expediting the necessary work, Akers sat through most of the summer before CUFA arrived on the scene.

Their objective was to install insulation, weather strip, and caulk the home, among other tasks. Following repeated trips to the Aker residence, culminating in the CUFA worker falling through Aker's bedroom ceiling, the workers left for good.

The home remains unfinished with the scars of the visit still prominent in the temporarily patched bedroom ceiling. Although, according to CUFA's original file for Akers, his case is marked "closed."

CUFA executive officers, so pleased with their accomplishments at the Westland home, were contemplating producing a slide presentation of the project to send to CSA regional office. It was the first home reported by CUFA to have been completed in seven months.

Jenks, a CUFA employee at the Taylor central office, applied to CUFA for financial assistance to help pay his heating bills.

Even though Jenks, as an employee of CUFA, is not eligible for CUFA assistance, his application was approved in July, over the signature of a former CUFA employee who had left the agency in May. But Jenks was not a satisfied customer. Only half of the improperly approved $500 was credited to his account.

"If I didn't think I would get in trouble for what I did, I'd squeal on them for ripping me off," Jenks said. Instead, he evened up the score by stealing used clothing, donated to CUFA for the low income, confessed Jenks.

"I know I did illegal. But they aren't doing right by people either," Jenks said. "(If)... you think I'm the only one... (to do it) you're stupid..."

CUFA, one of 30 community action agencies in Michigan, is charged with the responsibility of funneling federal grant money to seniors, the handicapped and the poor, through a myriad of out-Wayne County programs. Among them are Project Heat, providing home insulation and payments to client's heating bills; a legal aid program; food co-op; transportation; and a manpower program designed to train and promote employment of youth and adults.

But over the 10-year life of CUFA, near constant criticism has followed the organization.

And CUFA's headaches are auditor's headaches.

Auditors hired by CUFA to monitor financial activities for that agency have repeatedly ordered changes and reform of its almost non-existent accounting procedures, but to no avail.

CUFA's problems are no secret to CSA.

According to Behrman's account of CUFA's activities, the local agency was never denied funds, although "we threatened to many times."

From the first year of CUFA's operation, auditors have noted significant problems with the agency's accounting procedures. The Certified Public Accounting firm of Gerald G. Schroeder and Company of Southfield was hired by CUFA, and replaced by Martin's firm in 1976. The Auditing firms have changed; the audit reports have not.

Getting cold

In 1978, Communities United For Action (CUFA) approved $250 to be credited to Inkster resident Alice Lake's gas bill. However, Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. officials insist they only received $82.04, applying that amount to her account. "They were also supposed to come and put storm windows on my home. But they never came," Mrs. Lake said, "and I'm getting cold." Mrs. Lake, 57, has an annual income of less than $3,200. "Government is a bad business if you ask me..." — ANP photo.

CUFA:

Martin discovered $940,486 in CSA grant money had been "lost" due to CUFA's accounting procedures.

Even the Michigan Bureau of Community Services (BCS), the state monitoring agency for CUFA, discovered "over and under payments" made to client's utility bills, in addition to other critical deficiencies.

Yet, in the face of these continuing problems, none of CUFA's funding and monitoring agencies have backed up their recommendations for reform or else with bureaucratic muscle.

Associated Newspapers, having its request for information rejected by CUFA, secured a 1977 "serviced" list of 25 clients.

Of those 25 residents, ANP found 10 names to be fictious, with no such names shown on voter registration lists, existing CUFA case files, telephone listings or Bressers' street directory.

"We were told to make up names, do anything we had to do to make things jive whenever the auditors were coming. If we didn't we'd be out on our butts," said a former weatherization office employee.

ANP contacted five persons on that list. Two of those interviewed said CUFA employees made a cursory attempt to begin weatherizing their homes, but never completed the job. One interviewed said CUFA never visited his home, and two others said CUFA employees showed up at their homes "drunk and disorderly."

According to Martin's 1978 audit, $83,650 could not be accounted for by CUFA's weatherization program, and still is questioned by auditors. More than 15 percent of the weatherization files, according to his audit, could not be located.

In 1979, according to a BCS monitoring report, client files were not kept in consistent order, the 8-person CETA work crew had not been trained, inventory supplies were not securely stored, supplies for home weatherization were not itemized, and Martin's firm concluded, "that overexpenditures of the program account reached $12,209," even though for more than 7 months homes were not weatherized.

ANP documented 15 cases for 1979 where work had been authorized, employees paid, but the jobs were not done, leaving dissatisfied clients.

Doris Russell of Inkster is paralyzed from the waist down. She applied for home winterization assistance last spring and signed the necessary papers allowing CUFA to begin work.

CUFA records of the Russell case are marked "closed," although no work was done on the home.

Sarah Chandler, 69, of Inkster has been waiting since Oct. 1977 for CUFA weatherization assistance. It was not until ANP contacted her in October of this year that she learned her case had been marked "closed." In spite of the fact that CUFA records showed Mrs. Chandler receiving the services in November 1978, with 528 square feet of insulation having been installed, Mrs. Chandler's home remains uninsulated.

CUFA, by federal regulations, may spend as much as $350 per home for weatherization.

According to six independent interviews conducted by ANP with current and former CUFA employees, partial cause for the weatherization program's abject failure is due, in part, to large scale thefts of materials from CUFA's storage facilties. More often than not, by CUFA employees.

One of those employees interviewed said she had her home insulated with CUFA materials, although she did the labor herself.

"I ain't shittin' you girl. The only minorities we have here ain't black... they're the ones who don't steal..."

"...take it while the getting's good..."

ANP also verified that a CUFA board member had received $450 in weatherization assistance, although board members are ineligible for agency services.

In an attempt to reduce the high incidence of missing tools and materials, CUFA instituted monthly inventories of those items.

Three inventories conducted in 1979 showed a continual decreasing materials balance, and in June, when BCS field representative Sammy Rogers arrived to monitor, "there weren't any tools left," Rogers said.

According to BCS field representative Jackie Nichols: "CUFA is an agency with very serious problems. For an agency receiving public funds, these problems could be termed critical."

Critical problems, however, seem to be the norm at CUFA.

Other CUFA case files for its Project Heat program, a component of weatherization, deal with utility bill assistance. Those individual case files, obtained by ANP, provided additional insight into the agency's bookkeeping maze.

A Canton Township resident applied for utility bill assistance from CUFA. ANP discovered the agency had created not one, but two case files on her request.

One file authorized the payment of $99 directly to Detroit Edison. The other file authorized a $151 payment. The first authorized payment from CUFA was never received by Edison, according to an Edison official. The second, was sent, but listed a non-existent account number, and never was credited to that resident's bill.

A review of the many case files, obtained by ANP from the offices of CUFA, revealed an apparent trend by CUFA to authorize the maximum $250 utility bill grant allowances per client, irrespective of the individual's income level.

In eight cases, $250 had been approved by CUFA, however, the utility companies interviewed by ANP said they had received between $14 and $125 as payment to those same accounts.

CUFA's auditor Henry Martin, confirmed ANP's findings. In contrast, 1978 payments were made which exceeded the $250 maximum, totaling $1,647 in "questionable expenditures."

As further testimony to CUFA's problems, Westland resident Elizabeth Savage, 64, mother of three, was ruled ineligible for services by CUFA in 1978, because the family's combined income exceeded CSA's guidelines. Although, according to documentation produced for ANP, that family's total combined income was not $12,000 as calculated by CUFA, but less than $8,000 and within eligibility guidelines.

Among the more startling revelations uncovered by ANP regarded documented cases of Detroit residents consistently receiving aid from CUFA, an agency designed by federal guidelines to service out-Wayne County's 42 communities, "excluding" Detroit.

"One day there was this list of hundreds of names of Detroit people. I said wow. I showed it to everyone... all my supervisors... and they said 'get that hot potato away from me,' and so next thing I know the list disappears," said a former CUFA employee.

Another employee said he personally filled out the work sheet for three Detroit homes to be winterized.

While CUFA has consistently over and under paid utilities, made mistakes in eligibility determinations, and has provided aid to residents outside of its service area, many low income residents in CUFA's target areas continue to go without aid, or are granted minimal aid.

ANP learned of low-income seniors considerably well below the income eligibility level, who were issued only $12 and $20 payments. No explanation was given by CUFA employees, except that "it got too confusing to care after awhile."

Perhaps the situation a Romulus resident finds herself in may best typify the problems CUFA has encountered in attempting to service the poor.

On Oct. 25, Mrs. Genevive Gore was informed she would be eligible for services from CUFA. A few days later she was told there had been a mistake regarding her income and that she was not eligible.

On Nov. 1, Mrs. Gore was informed by CUFA that by mistake she was ruled ineligible, and that now she would be receiving services. Each conversation was witnessed by ANP.

A CUFA employee, however, told ANP that funding for Mrs. Gore and others like her is stalled at CSA. She said the 1979-80 fiscal year's CSA appropriations "aren't here yet, and we don't expect them to be here for at least another month, or two, so she's just gonna have to wait."

Behrman confirmed that employee's contention, noting that due to "technical administrative difficulties" CUFA's funds were being held in abeyance.

But with the coming of winter, Mrs. Gore could care less about technical difficulties.

She is frightened.

"I don't have enough money to last a month. I'm sick, and I'm scared..." she said. "I don't know what to do."

Next week CUFA: Consistent inconsistencies.

VA loans pick up

Veterans are becoming more aware that they can get lower interest rates than conventional loans by taking advantage of their home loan guarantee rights.

During a recent Seminar at The Dearborn Inn, Ross Manchester of Manufacturers Hanover Mortgage Corporation pointed out many of the advantages of helping veterans to a group of 165 area real estate brokers and sales people. Because veterans can purchase a new or existing home with 11½ percent interest and no money down, up to $100,000 maximum, they represent a huge potential home market.

While veterans are expected to have reasonably clean credit and job histories, they can usually qualify for a higher mortgage amount than is possible under either conventional of FHA systems. This means veterans can secure better housing at a lower cost.

Park sets 'hoot-in'

A "Hoot-In" will be held at the nature center of Oakwoods Metropark on Saturday at 7 p.m.

Naturalist Bob Wittersheim will show a brief slide program on the natural history of Michigan owls. A walk into the woods in search of these elusive birds is included. Tape recorded owl calls will be used to lure them out of hiding.

MUSICAL NOTES
by Doug Brown

Bells are not the oldest musical instrument, but they do have a long and illustrious history. The oldest bell is thought to be one found in the Babylonian Palace of Minrod in 1849. It supposedly dates back to around 1000 BC. But the Tsar Kolokol bell, cast in 1733 in Moscow, makes up in size what it lacks in age. It is supposedly the largest bell ever made, weighing 216 tons, measuring 22 feet 8 inches in diameter and standing over 19 feet high. Its home is the Kremlin, in Moscow.

Because of outstanding bill

County threatens to end sheriff's services

prepay its current payments by 45 days. If the city fell behind its prepaid monthly payment, it would have an additional 30 days to make it up, he explained.

Informed that the county may terminate its police services, Oakley said: "It's unfortunate that the city and the county have gotten to this point in view of the fact that they have not submitted a bill for the $800,000."

The mayor said he hoped to have a meeting soon with the county "to resolve a lack of communication".

"I know the county is busy with other matters now," he added.

Asked what Romulus would do if the county cut its police services to the city, Oakley said: "I have more faith in human nature than that. I know the sheriff realizes his moral obligation."

"All I want to know is how much we owe and what do we owe it for."

Suzore Monday said the Board of Auditors is elected by the people and does not always follow requests made by the Board of Commissioners. He said he was not sure if the old contract spelled out in detail that Romulus should get an itemized breakdown of its monthly bills for police protection.

"What they (Romulus) want is the time John Smith spent on fingerprinting and on what day," Suzore said. He implied such documentation would be laborious for the county to perform.

"If I had my way, the county wouldn't provide police services to outlying communities. But the trouble is that we have a sheriff who wants to be the metropolitan chief of police," he contended.

Currently, Kelly said Plymouth and Brownstown Township are requesting that the sheriff also provide their communities with contracted police services.

Asked for his comments on the situation, Romulus Clerk Leonard J. Folmar maintained the city didn't owe the county "anything".

He said that two years ago the city had asked for a breakdown of administrative costs, which he said represents 20 percent of total charges under the contract with the county.

"The Board of Auditors said okay, but to this date, we have not been given that information," the clerk said.

Folmar said the city feels that the Board of Auditors is the primary cause of the county's current financial problems and is responsible for the differences which now exist between the city and the county over police services.

Folmar said the Board of Auditors has consistently refused to notify the city of increases in police services payments by "A prescribed procedure".

In its memorandum and bill for police services of July 18, 1979, the Board of Auditors had expressed concern over "... considerable lag time between the billing and payment dates".

It said that pressing cash flow problems at the county forced request by the Board of Auditors to Romulus for payment of the money owed for police services.

Noting that the city had acted "unilaterally" in paying on a different basis than the one agreed upon in the contract, the Board of Auditors suggested that provisions which the city objected to could be renegotiated.

Complete training

Seniors complete CUFA's foster grandparents 'class'

There are several "new" grandparents in the southwestern Wayne County area, after they completed 40 hours of training for the Communities United For Action Inc. (CUFA) foster grandparent program.

The project matches 45 low-income seniors with 90 children who have special needs. The grandparents listen to, talk to, rock, hug and love the same two children every day. Many of the youngsters in the program reside in institutions, so their "grandma" or "grandpa" may be their only loving relationship.

The grandparents work four hours a day, five days a week, at schools and residential institutions. Grandparents receive a nontaxable stipend, transportation, smocks and special training.

Completing the 40 hours of required training prior to their assignment with children were Maudie Tarby and Mary Gear, both of Romulus, as well as Jeanette Collom of Taylor and Flora Riddle of Brownstown Township. They will be working at the Southgate Regional Center for Developmental Disabilities, a residential institution for the mentally impaired.

Their week-long training session included classes on the levels of mental impairment, child development, behavior modification, fraud against the elderly and social services.

According to Mrs. Tarby: "The training was long, but we learned so much. The instructors were wonderful! Now we're anxious to begin with the children."

Winter parking restrictions posted

Romulus residents are being advised now of parking restrictions and salting procedures that will be in effect during snow removal from city streets this winter.

A weather emergency ordinance adopted in March 1978 makes it unlawful to park any motor vehicle or trailer on any public street or highway in the city after a snowfall of 6 inches or more.

Residents also are urged to pull their vehicles into a driveway or yard when it begins to snow so that snowplows will have a clear path to clear the white stuff away.

Only intersections in city subdivisions will be salted. Past experience has shown that slush containing salt and which is thrown into yards kills the grass and deteriorates concrete sidewalks and driveways as well as ruining asphalt roads from continual freezing and thawing.

First to be plowed and salted after a heavy snowstorm will be the main roads and bus routes. Next will be subdivision streets. Residents are advised to wait until the snowplow has passed before clearing the end of driveways where the plow's blade has been lifted.

Residents also are reminded to clean their sidewalks. Senior citizens or disabled persons can call the Romulus Help Center at 941-7970 where personnel will be available to assist them.

Investigation continuing into Morgan Manor blaze

An investigation is continuing to determine the exact cause of an estimated $1 million fire which gutted eight apartments and displaced 12 families Nov. 14 at Morgan Manor.

Although it was first thought that a 4-year-old girl, playing with matches, had started the blaze in her third-floor bedroom, authorities remain skeptical.

"I have talked to State Fire Marshal Bob Delaney again, and I am awaiting further word from him," said John Lewis, investigator for the youth services bureau of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

Romulus Fire Chief John Wilhide said he too was scheduled to hear from the state fire marshal on any further developments in the case.

Wilhide said investigators did trace the fire's origin to the little girl's bedroom. However, Lewis said several questions remain to be answered, including why a small child would be playing with matches in the wee hours of the morning and why she had not succumbed to smoke inhalation from a blaze which reportedly had gained considerable momentum when her father carried her from the room.

Most of the members of the 12 families who lost living quarters and furnishings and clothes in the fire were relocated in other apartments by the Morgan Manor management.

The Romulus Fire Dept., aided by snorkel unit from Taylor, were able to put out the blaze and stop it from spreading to nearby buildings, said Mel Morgan, who built and developed the apartment complex.

Through February

Library has busy schedule

Activities at the Romulus Public Library through February 1980, including those for children and adults, were previewed by Diane Hazen, head librarian, recently.

Preschool story time will continue through Dec. 6, which is the date of the annual Christmas party. The next story time session is scheduled for next February.

A Thanksgiving craft workshop was planned for Nov. 17, with Christmas projects slated for Dec. 8 and Dec. 15, she said. All Romulus school-aged children are invited to take part.

On Dec. 1, children are invited to help trim the Christmas tree, which will include the stringing of popcorn and cranberries and other decorations.

In February the "Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau" will begin a movie series on Tuesday nights, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The movie schedule in February will be Feb. 5, "500 Million Years Beneath the Sea" and "The Flight of the Penguins"; Feb. 12, "The Green Sea Turtle" and "The Return of the Sea Elephants"; Feb. 19, "Seals" and "Sharks"; Feb. 26, "Sining Whale" and "Sunken Treasure."

Huron superintendent explains tax requests

A detailed fact sheet on the Dec. 10 Huron School District special election, asking voters to approve two millage proposals for 8.97 additional mills, has been released by the office of Supt. Curtis D. Bartz.

Registration for the special election closed Nov. 13, but absentee ballots still may be obtained up to 5 p.m. Dec. 8 at the Board of Education Office, 24820 Merriman Road. Those persons unable to come to the board office are asked to call 782-2441 for information.

Voters will cast ballots at three precincts which will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Dec. 10 — Precinct 1 at the New Boston Elementary School, Precinct 2 at the Waltz Fire Hall and Precinct 3 at the administration building of the Huron Elementary School.

Proposition 1 seeks 4.47 additional mills for one year to cover a $460,144 deficit that Bartz said would occur, if the school district continues with its present program, plus an audited deficit of $125,075 for the 1978-79 school year.

Proposition 2 asks approval of another 4.5 mills for one year to restore needed programs, maintenance work and purchase materials that have been cut in the last two years, the superintendent said.

The school board on Nov. 5 adopted a deficit budget and voted to amend that budget following the Dec. 10 school election with the hope that a favorable vote on the two millage proposals will bring a balanced budget.

In the fact sheet, Bartz answered five commonly asked questions on school finances.

"Why, when my assessments go up and all the new homes are being built, do the schools need more money?"

Bartz explained that the state aid formula incorporates $43 for each mill levied by the school district. The 25 mills being levied in the Huron School District is not as high as in many other districts, with the result that less money per pupil is received, he said. With additional mills being levied, the Huron School District would get more state aid per pupil.

"So, we aren't getting any more money totally. That doesn't explain to me why the Huron School District is in such a mess!"

The superintendent broke down his answer into three parts (1) Student enrollment is down to 3,059 from the projected 3,200; the audit showed a $125,075 deficit; inflation is taking a bigger bite every year; receipt of only $54,600 in declining enrollment funds, down from $240,000 last school year; such state mandated programs as driver's education, special education and transportation are not 100 percent reimbursed by the state; percentage of state aid is not increased at the same rate as inflation; the school district's obligation to pay 100 percent of all unemployment benefits for employees has been soaring; workmen's compensation is rising rapidly.

A second reason for the deficit, Bartz said, is the lack of continuity, lack of budget procedures and their control, and lack of communication which caused the school district to overspend in many areas. He explained that as the new superintendent he is working on these problem areas and said he will be more accountable to the public on financial matters.

A third reason for the deficit, he said, is the deficit shown by the school district for the 1977-78 and 1978-79 school years. The state law prohibits a deficit for three years in a row, he emphasized.

"What are the basic programs that have been lost to the children in the school district in the last two years?"

Noting that the Huron School District is in danger of losing its accreditation with the University of Michigan accreditation committee and that graduating high school seniors presently cannot accrue enough credits to enter the U of M, Bartz listed lost high school programs as decreased class periods from six to five daily, elimination of vocal music, elimination of dramatics, high school counselors reduced from three to two, elimination of vocational drafting, elimination of journalism, elimination of full-time librarian, elimination of Spanish, elimination of small engine repair course, elimination of instrumental sectionals, art classes reduced from 10 classes and two teachers to five classes and one teacher, home economics classes reduced from six to three, reduction of library book purchases, reduction of athletics for junior varsity and below (this year the Athletic Boosters financed entire ninth grade football and girls junior varsity basketball team).

On the junior high level, the superintendent said lost programs included class periods reduced from six to five, elimination of art classes, elimination of woodshop classes, elimination of home economics, elimination of drafting, elimination of typing, elimination of foreign languages, loss of the assistant principal, serious reduction in textbook, library book and supply purchases, shifting of staff from junior high to other buildings, elimination of all sports programs.

Lost to elementary schools are going from a 6¼-hour day to a 5¼-hour day, elimination of all instrumental music, reduced art and physical education scheduling to once every two weeks.

"How many staff people do we have now as compared to the last two years?"

Explaining that total school enrollment has dropped from 2,428 in 1977-78 to 2,282 in 1979-80, Bartz listed figures showing staff members for those two years as administrators, 11 (1977-78) to 8 (1979-80), teachers, 131 to 114, aides, 25 to 19, secretaries, 18 to 17 plus one supervisor, maintenance, 3 to 8, custodian, 18 to 9, bus drivers, 30 to 30 plus one supervisor, mechanics, 2 to 2, cooks, 9 to 3 plus one supervisor.

"How much is the millage increase going to cost me?"

Bartz said property assessed at $10,000 would cost the owner an additional $89.70 annually for the two millage proposals. However, he cautioned, in individual cases the cost could be zero or less than the above example. A proportionate increase in taxes would be levied for property above or below the $10,000 example cited, he said.

He explained: "If the total property tax on your dwelling (your township tax bill) is more than 3.5 percent of your household income, you are eligible for an income tax credit or rebate of 60 percent of the excess from the State of Michigan.

"If you live in a rented home, 17 percent of your rent is considered property tax. If you rent a mobile home lot, 17 percent of your rent plus $36 a year is considered property tax.

"Senior citizens with a limited income may be able to get a 100 percent rebate or credit."

The superintendent said more information on the rebates and credits will be given to those who call his office.

The fact sheet concluded with a comparison of the 25 mills currently levied in the Huron School District with that of Flat Rock where 30.4 mills are levied, and Woodhaven where 31.25 mills are assessed.

Chamber to host party

The Romulus Chamber of Commerce will be hosting a Las Vegas-style Millionaire's Party, beginning at 7 p.m. Saturday, at the Romulus Progressive Hall, 11580 Ozga Road at Goddard Road.

The party will feature a free raffle of food baskets, prizes — including a 15-inch portable television, lamp, flowers, gasoline and pictures — and fun galore. Organizers emphasize that partygoers will have to be present to claim prizes for the raffle.

For further information call 941-5710.

County delays layoffs

The layoff of 410 Wayne County employees, scheduled for Nov. 18, has been postponed until Dec. 1, the beginning of a new fiscal year when a separate schedule of layoffs is proposed to eliminate a projected $18 million deficit.

That decision came from the County Board of Commissioners on Nov. 15, when they received from their Ways and Means Committee the proposed new 1979-80 budget. According to the new budget, between 500 and 600 positions are expected for elimination next year.

Some positions among the 410 also will be included in the layoffs after Dec. 1, but exactly how many people are involved still is undetermined because not all the jobs are filled.

Postponement of layoffs during this fiscal year dissolves the caretaker committee which was formed in October to reduce staff and cut back services to preserve all cash for minimum payroll and vendor costs. Along with the caretaker committee, the commissioners voted in October to layoff all county employeees with intent to recall about half for the caretake operation.

Citing labor contract provisions, court orders and other restrictions, the caretaker committee instead recommended layoff of only the 410. On recommendation of its Financial Crisis Committee, the board decided that "a layoff plan consistent with positions recommended for elimination in the 1979-80 budget will be more productive and cost effective over a longer period of time."

In its recommendation, the Financial Crisis Committee called the caretaker layoff plan "not practical" and said it was incapable of implementation by Nov. 18 when it was meant to take effect.

Also, the county's financial situation has changed substantially since the care taker plan was conceived. Since then, the state has released $4.5 million which helped meet earlier payrolls, an additional $1.5 million previously impounded by the courts has been freed for general fund use, assurance has been given at the national level for full revenue sharing income next year, and legislative action is underway in Lansing for purchase of the Walter P. Reuther facility in Westland.

Although the county money posture is better than payless paydays and when issuance of script was suggested, a cash-flow problem still exists, according to a report chief county auditor Richard T. Kelly.

The chairman of the 3-member Board of Auditors, Kelly said that pay for employees is the first priority and the most important vendors are the second consideration, but that "we still have a cash-flow problem."

He said the payroll for about 2,000 General Hospital and Sheriff's Department employees due Nov. 23 is only two-thirds available, and that payday for 3,000 others on Nov. 30 depends partly on the sale of the Reuther facility. In the recent past the county has missed paydays but is currently caught up and paying on time.

About $12.5 million is expected from the Reuther sale, with about half of that ready for payroll and other uses after payment of debts owed on the instituion.

Even without sale of the Reuther facility, it still may be possible to pay employees through November, Kelly said. He said the county has some 60 revenue accounts which provide income on a daily basis.

Legislature sends essential insurance bill to Govenor

That's the word from State Rep. Edward Mahalak, who said the measure outlaws redlining in automobile and home insurance and assures every Michigan citizen of essential insurance coverage at a fair price.

It is a compromise worked out by the Statewide Coalition Against Redlining; members of the insurance industry and labor organizations and legislators, he added.

"State law requires motorists to have auto insurance; home insurance is necessary to obtain a mortgage; and renters need insurance on contents of dwellings," he said. "These types of insurance are considered 'essential'."

The legislation was proposed as a solution to the problems of availability of essential insurance created when companies arbitrarily cancel and non-renew homeowners and automobile insurance policies.

Key elements of the new law are the assurance of fair pricing and insurance availability for the vast majority of consumers in the state.

For auto insurance coverage, persons will be rated on factors within the individuals control, such as driving record, miles driven, make and model of car, etc. A person cannot be rated on sex or marital status, although companies can continue to use age or length of driving experience as a factor.

Good drivers will pay less than bad drivers. Companies still will be able to use territories for rating purposes, but may only have 20 different base rates throughout the state.

Urban residents still may be charged more than the amount an outstate resident is charged, but a major provision is that the rate difference between adjacent territories can only be 10 percent. Under present insurance rating plans, the difference is sometimes more than 100 percent, Mahalak said.

The new law meets the requirements of availability, fair rating, and due process mandated by the Michigan Supreme Court. The court upheld all the key elements of the state's controversial no-fault law last year. However, the court directed the state to take a tighter rein on premium rates and rate-making policies to assure fair coverage for everyone.

The essential insurance legislation in its new form offers needed protection for car owners and ensures that auto insurance rates of good drivers will not escalate to pay for insurance for bad drivers.

"The issue has generated a great deal of misunderstanding," Mahalak said. "Reports of potential rate increases have been distorted and inaccurate. The new version of the bill actually would reduce automobile insurance rates in many parts of the state."

One provision of the bill allows drivers who are not at fault in an accident to sue in small claims court for property damages up to $400, which is impossible under present no-fault insurance law. This provision is supported by consumer interests and most major insurance companies.

The compromise version also provides that car owners can obtain insurance from the insurer of their choice unless they acquire more than six driving "points". Insurance companies would then have the right to cancel their policies, putting them in the high risk pool.

The strongest provisions in the bill are those for homeowners. People whose homes meet minimum standards of insurability will be able to obtain full coverage at reasonable rates. This includes a complete homeowner's package of fire, extended coverage, liability and theft.

The legislation provides statutory authorization for an innovative home insurance policy—the "repair cost" policy, which will be based on the market value of the home. The new repair cost policy would allow consumers to insure homes up to their market value rather than the replacement cost.

The measure also includes a prohibition against homeowner insurance redlining practices. Location of a house could not be used to deny insurance coverage, however, coverage could be refused for arson convictions or for using the house for illegal purposes.

LeEARL BRYANT

On December 3 the Detroit Section of the Society of Women Engineers (SWE) will present a program on "Upward Mobility for Professional Women," featuring LeEarl Bryant of Rockwell International. The program, which is free and open to the public, will begin at 8 p.m. at the Dearborn Inn in Dearborn, following cocktails (cash bar) at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m. (dinner charge is $12.50 per person). Ms. Bryant, a registered professional engineer in the state of Texas, is a 1965 graduate of Texas Technological University with a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering. She received a master of science in electrical engineering in 1969 from Southern Methodist University while working for Rockwell. Since coming to work for Rockwell in 1965, Ms. Bryant has held many technical and management positions, leading to her current position as senior engineering executive, corporate engineering staff. In 1974 she coordinated a conference on "Upward Mobility and Professional Development for Women Engineers," sponsored by the Engineering Foundation and the Society of Women Engineers. Ms. Bryant also has authored numerous articles on technical subjects, women in engineering and management. Even though the program itself is free, reservations for it and dinner are requested. To make reservations or for further information, contact Kathy Hammer at 322-3706 until 6:30 p.m., or 685-7557.

Congratulations!

W. R. Lewellen (left), assistant general sales manager-service for Cadillac Motor Car Division, congratulates John W. Zimmer of Belleville on his completion of the General Motors Area District Service Manager in Training Program. The intensive 5-week program, conducted at General Motors Institute in Flint, was developed to train new field representatives in all facets of service operations. The program included sessions on operations and business management, sales and service analysis, customer communication, problem solving and decision making.

Edison changes 'Help us'

Detroit Edison will employ a variety of unusual communications techniques, including sign language for the hearing impaired in its television commercials, in an effort to inform all of its customers of the many channels available to them to avoid service shut-offs for non-payment of electric bills.

In addition to sign language in its television commercials, the company is planning to include in its 1979 "Help Us Help You" campaign a special booklet printed in Braille for the blind, and will have additional information assistance for non-English speaking customers. The utility also will have available personnel trained to discuss bill payment problems with customers in eleven foreign languages.

"Help Us Help You" is designed to encourage Edison customers to take advantage of the many long-established avenues open to them to avoid service shut-offs, according to Frances S. Procopio, the utility's manager of customer relations.

"The key to the program," she said, "is having our customers contact us early — before a bill becomes overdue or a shut-off

Blood donors sought during holiday season

The need for blood knows no holiday season. In the metropolitan Detroit area, the American Red Cross must collect 950 to 1,000 pints of blood each day to meet the needs of patients in 75 area hospitals.

"We especially need blood donations during holiday periods," said A. William Shafer, MD, director of the Southeastern Michigan Regional Red Cross Blood Services. "Group donations usually are down due to industrial shutdowns there are fewer collection days and fewer donors who take the time to donate, but we still have hospital patients who need blood."

Red Cross urges people between the ages of 18 (17 with parental permission) and 66 and in general good health to give blood. Call for an appointment at a regional donor center or during a scheduled bloodmobile visit in your area this month.

Donations are accepted at the Dearborn Donor Center, located in the Village Plaza, 23400 Michigan Avenue, Dearborn, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Friday, from 2 to 8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday and from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday. The blood center also will be open Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. For an appointment call 274-3900.

The Red Cross bloodmobile also will be visiting the following Western Wayne County sites during the holiday season:

— St. Mel's School, 7560 Inkster Road, Dearborn Heights, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Dec. 2. For an appointment call 277-9582 during blood drive hours.

— Community Baptist Church, 6200 Fourth St., Romulus, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Dec. 8. For an appointment call 729-0630 during blood drive hours.

— St. Mary's Church, 3417 Third St., Wayne, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Dec. 16. For an appointment call 721-9491 during blood drive hours.

Where do insects go?

"What Happens to Insects in Winter?" will be examined during a special program to be conducted at the nature center of Kensington Metropark near Milford on Sunday, at 10 a.m.

Most insects apparently have disappeared for the winter, but they have left behind many signs of their summer activities. Join naturalist Dave Moilanen for a look at these signs and to learn how insects make it through the winter season.

Advance registration is required for this 1½-2 hour program, as are vehicle entry permits.

Oakwood: Regional center for 'high risk' infant care

Oakwood Hospital will serve as the regional center for communities in Western Wayne County to care for high risk infants and their mothers as part of an $8.5 million expansion program.

Ground was broken Nov. 12 for the east addition to the 595-bed Dearborn health facility, the sixth major building proram in the hospital's 26-year history. Construction is expected to take two years.

Participating in the groundbreaking ceremonies were executive vice-president Gerald D. Fitzgerald; Francis C. McMath, president of the hospital's Board of Trustees; M. W. Davis, chairman of the Oakwood Foundation Board of Trustees; and officials from local and county government, area health agencies, and members of the hospital administration.

Significant components in the four-level structure (ground floor and three upper floors) include a consolidated physical medicine and rehabilitative services department, a new main entrance for the hospital, and the relocation and expansion of several hospital departments.

To be located on the third floor of the addition and occupying more than 22,000 square feet, the Maternal and Child Health Care Center will consist of labor and delivery rooms, post-partum beds, intermediate care and general nurseries, examination rooms, and other related facilities.

A new service, a neonatal intensive care unit, will be an integral part of the center to treat critically ill infants requiring prolonged, specialized hospitalization.

In accordance with both the long-range goals of the hospital and directives of regional and state health agencies, Oakwood's obstetrical and newborn program will provide comprehensive services on a coordinated basis in the downriver area to reduce the incidence of infant mortality as well as of mental retardation and other disabilities.

Oakwood Hospital ranks third in the state with more than 4,200 births a year. It annually enjoys an occupancy rate in its obstetric unit of more than 95 percent.

The occupational therapy, speech pathology and physical therapy departments will be consolidated into the physical medicine and rehabilitative services department on the second floor of the new structure, resulting in improvements in the examination and treatment of patients receiving these services.

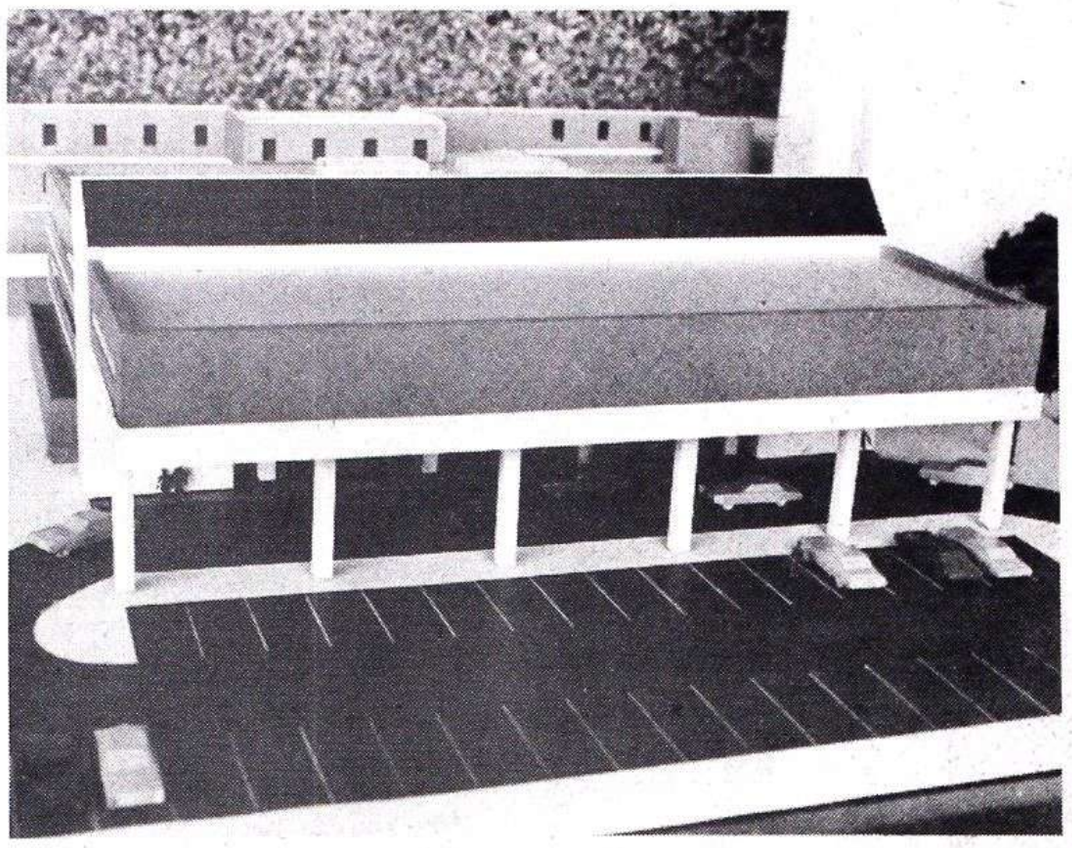
Currently, each of the departments is located separately in the hospital, creating difficult accessibility for a patient load that has tripled in the past six years and inadequte space needs for quality care.

The construction of this department was made possible, in part, by a $750,000 grant from the Ford Fund and gifts through the Oakwood Hospital Foundation.

The hospital's main entrance will be relocated from the north side of the hospital as part of the east addition. This area will also be the site for the information and admitting offices, a new Gift Shop, physicians' lounge, and relocated medical records department and utilization review office.

The nuclear medicine department will be moved into larger quarters on the ground floor of the addition. Purchasing and housekeeping department also will be enlarged and maintenance will receive additional facilities to house mechanical equipment.

As these departments move into their new areas in the East Addition, other units will be affected, providing expanded space for Medical Library, administration, dietary, pharmacy, finance, and laboratories.



New addition

This is a model of the $8.5 million east addition to Oakwood Hospital, which will contain a regional intensive care center for high-risk infants and mothers. A physical rehabilitative services department, a new main entrance and numerous expansion and renovation projects also are included in this latest Oakwood Hospital building program.

notice is issued — so that we can help them by arranging special payment plans, by counseling them and directing them to agencies where energy assistance is available, and by providing them with information on using their electricity wisely."

In the television commercial the message about special programs available to assist Edison customers is delivered simultaneously in sign language by Gloria Hynes, WDIV-TV Detroit sign language newscaster, appearing in an inset in the upper left portion of the TV screen.

The booklet in Braille will be available to agencies providing assistance to the blind, and the foreign language information assistance will be available at Edison customer offices.

Edison's "Help Us Help You" campaign again will feature information about the company's Senior Citizen Rate and Double Notice Protection Plan — both initiated by the utility in 1978.

The Senior Citizen Rate, for customers who are at least 65 years of age and who are heads of their households, provides savings on electric bills ranging from $4.50 a month for customers using 300 kilowatthours a month, to $1.50 a month for the average customer using 500 kilowatthours per month. About 100,000 already are on the special rate.

The Double Notice Protection Plan makes it possible for the company's residential customers to have a duplicate collection shut-off notice sent to a designated third party, a system that provides back-up to protect people who might possibly be injured or inconvenienced from disconnection of electric service as a result of oversight or unintentional neglect of a shut-off notice.

Bossory completes recruit training

Navy Fireman Andrew D. Bossory, the son of Leslie and Mary Bossory of Goddard Road, Romulus, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center. at Great Lakes, Ill.

During the 8-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on the job training. Included in his studies were seamanship, close-order drill, Naval history and first aid.

A 1979 graduate of Romulus Senior High School, he joined the Navy in August 1979.

Also in the armed forces:

Marine Cpl. Harold P. Mierop, Jr., whose wife, Patricia, is the daughter of Donald and Virginia Truran of Harmony Lane, Belleville, has been meritoriously promoted to his present rank while serving with the 2nd Force Service Support Group at the Marine Corps Base at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

He received the accelerated promotion in recognition of outstanding performance, duty proficiency and demonstrated professional abilities.

Sgt. George E. Morris, the son of retired Air Force M. Sgt. and Mrs. Frank A. Morris of Burton, Romulus, has arrived for duty at the Incirlik Common Defense Installation in Incirlik, Turkey.

Sgt. Morris, a security specialist, was previously assigned at Little Rock Air Force Base, Ark., and is now serving with a unit of the U.S. Air Forces in Europe.

Navey Electronics Tech. 2.c. Richard A. Browning, the son of Wilburn and Patricia Browning of Van Burn Road, Romulus, is participating in exercise "Ocean Safari 79."

He is a crewmember aboard the frigate USS Patterson, homeported in Mayport, Fla., and currently deployed with NATO's Standing Naval Force, Atlantic.

The 2-week exercise is being conducted in the North Atlantic Ocean and Norwegian Sea. Ships and aircraft in the multi-nation exercise come from Belgium, Canada, Germany, Norway, Portugal, the Netherlands, the United Kingdom and the United States. "Ocean Safari 79" is designed to demonstrate and improve NATO's capability to provide maritime support to Europe in time of crisis or war.

Navy Seaman Recruit Delvin A. Nelson, the son of Napoleon and Betty J. Nelson of Irma, Romulus, recently participated in exercise "Kangaroo III."

He is a crewmember aboard the amphibious transport dock USS Duluth, homeported in San Diego, Calif., and currently operating as a unit of the U.S. 7th Fleet.

The 2-week exercise in the Indian Ocean off the Australian coast involved 27 ships from Australia, New Zealand and the United States. The ships practiced anti-ship, anti-air and anti-submarine warfare techniques while the 31st Marine Amphibious Unit conducted an amphibious landing exercise.

State to assist 'Ski Train'

Gov. William G. Milliken has announced that the State of Michigan will assist in testing a "snow train" for skiers and snow mobilers between Cadillac and southeast Michigan next January.

Milliken said state agencies will help organize an Owosso-Cadillac round-trip passenger excursion train on the weekend of Jan. 4-6 to test the feasibility of reviving such once-popular rail service for northbound tourists.

The Jan. 4-6 rail excursion to Cadillac will be promoted as the Michigan Snow Train and will feature a weekend of entertainment, including a band.

"Through initiatives such as this one, the state hopes to rekindle interest in resort passenger runs and to show people that riding trains can be a fun experience as well as an energy-saving one," Milliken said.

Cadillac Winter Promotions Inc., a nonprofit organization formed by Cadillac area business leaders, will be the official sponsors of the event, with assistance from the Michigan Travel Bureau, the Michigan Office of the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission, the Michigan Bureau of Urban and Public Transportation, the Cadillac Chamber of Commerce and others.

Five passenger coaches, a club car and a flat car to carry snowmobiles have been secured by Michigan Interstate Railway Company, the former Ann Arbor Railroad, which will operate the train.

Ridership will be limited to the first 340 persons who buy tickets for the round-trip ride, according to sponsors of the event.

A package plan which will include the round-trip ride, all ski lift and snowmobile trail fees for the weekend, a Friday night fish fry, lodging for two nights, Saturday lunch, a Saturday morning lumberjack breakfast and other special events will be offered for $189 a person, said Robert Jones, manager of the Cadillac Chamber of Commerce.

Transportation to Caberfae Ski Area also will be included. A number of snowmobile trail rides and a 50-mile Snofari have been planned for the weekend.

Additional information and reservations can be obtained by contacting Robert Jones at the Cadillac Chamber of Commerce, 200 Lake St., Cadillac 49601, or William VanderMolen, President of Cadillac Winter Promotions, 200 Lake St., Cadillac 49601.

Milliken said that if the trip proves successful, especially from a revenue standpoint, other similar ventures will be organized in other parts of the state aimed at both train buffs and recreation enthusiasts.

The train is scheduled to depart Owosso at 1 p.m. on Jan. 4 and return by 9:30 p.m. Jan. 6.

Owosso was selected as the staging area for the inaugural Michigan Snow Train because it has good truck connections to Cadillac, is close to southeast Michigan and provides a relatively short (5½-hour) train ride. The train trip is approximately 130 miles long.

Be versatile

College instructor: Versality is must to be an artist

"Artists must be versatile if they want to stay in the field," Loretta Hubley of Belleville advises her Madonna College art students.

Hubley, who has taken advantage of her diverse opportunities to refine her talents, speaks from experience.

In addition to teaching at Madonna, she operates The Studio for Lithography and Etching in Ann Arbor.

"I was thrilled when we opened last October, and consider this one of my greatest achievements."

The Studio offers memberships to advanced printmakers who work independently, as well as day and evening classes to beginning artists.

Original etchings and lithographs by Hubley and four other Studio members are now being exhibited at a neighboring studio, the Dreyfuss Gallery at 209 N. Main in Ann Arbor through Saturday.

Hubley received her bachelor of arts in secondary education from the University of Dayton, and her masters degree in art education from the University of Maryland.

While studying under internationally known lithographer, Tadeusz Lapinski, instructor at the Maryland University, she became his graduate assistant. At the same time, she taught Art Fundamentals at the University.

She later worked at NASA Headquarters in Washington, D.C., designing and implementing a catalog system for storing works by famous artists.

In the years to follow, Hubley implemented a new art program for elderly patients at the Sisters of Jesus and Mary Clinic, Maryland. When her husband's job took her to California, she taught language skills to emotionally disturbed high school students, and also taught stone and metal plate lithography to adults in a local art club. While in California, she studied etching under local artist Sherry Bell.

"As you can tell by my experience, I've always wanted to teach," Hubley said. "You can relate art to so many things. Drawings and visual aids help people understand so much easier."

In addition to teaching at Madonna and the Studio, Hubley tutors children with reading difficulties at St. Anthony's School in Belleville.

HAROLD REDISKE JR.

"I DON'T KNOW WHAT TO SAY..."

Does the question of knowing the "proper" thing to say at the visitation keep you from going to a wake or funeral? It shouldn't.

Your appearance at a wake or funeral is always a support and expression of love to the bereaved. The words you express as you embrace or extend the clasp-of-hand can add a sincere feeling of warmth and concern — but the words aren't nearly as important as your "just being there."

Here are some expressions you might consider:
"John was such a fine person. I will miss him."
"My warmest sympathy to you and the family."
"Mary was such a dear friend."
"Mary enjoyed life and shared her joys so often with others."

You may find it easier to say these words of comfort if you practice them beforehand when you are alone. Sometimes just hearing yourself say the words out loud makes them easier to express to others.

Things that matter

False ideas about happiness...

By GEORGE PLAGENZ
United Feature Syndicate

The neighbors' 17-year-old son has dropped out of high school. He would have been a senior this year, but last summer he got a job in a fast-food place and was promoted to assistant manager before the summer was over.

The prospects for further advancement seem good. It may even be the start of a successful career in the food game.

This at any rate is how his parents — both college graduates — look at Rick's decision.

"Rick never was much for algebra or Shakespeare," says his father. "His forte is dealing with people."

To be sure, knowing algebra won't help Rick much in expediting Big Macs to long lines of hungry, impatient customers. And he can fall in love without having read a line of "Romeo and Juliet."

Those of us who have been on the receiving end of surely treatment from service people also may agree with Rick's decision.

If there is some career-minded young person around who has "a forte for dealing with people," let's get him behind the counter without delay — both for his sake and ours.

There are many people who feel it is a mistake to keep young people in school who are not cut out for the academic life. We only turn them into troublemakers.

Not only that, we may be ruining an awful lot of potential good plumbers, cement finishers and carpenters — not to mention others who, like Rick, may be destined to make it big in the service fields.

We feel this way, I think, largely because two false ideas about happiness have been ingrained in us.

Those false ideas are these:

(1) Happiness is getting what you want when you want it.

(2) Happiness is a quarter-acre of land, a good job and beer, bowling and sex after dark.

Because we actually believe that when a boy who doesn't like school wants to quit and get a job and earn some money, we are inclined to say that may be the best thing for him.

Or, if we don't go that far, we feel the answer is vocational education — study a trade in school and never mind about learning to write good English or reading Shakespeare.

I never thought of quitting school or learning a mechanical trade. (I still have a scar on my thumb where the saw slipped in seventh grade Home Mechanics.)

But I would gladly have dispensed with Shakespeare if I had been given the choice. I'm glad now I wasn't.

I once wrote an essay for an English literature class in high school in which I defended my own proposition that if any poet deserved to be immortalized it was Edgar Guest, not Shakespeare.

My main line of argument was that at least you could understand Edgar Guest. I also mentioned that I wanted to be a sports writer and what good would Shakespeare be to someone covering the Cleveland Indians or Ohio State University's football team?

The only Bill Shakespeare I cared anything about was at that time playing halfback for Notre Dame.

My teacher, Miss Marie Spiess, gave me a B on that paper and said nothing more. But if I thought she was going to let such puerile reasoning go unchallenged, I was wrong.

One day she came into class with a clipping from the sports pages. Thornton (Lefty) Lee, the Indians' pitcher, was having trouble keeping his weight down in spring training. Frank Gibbons, the baseball writer, described Lee's predicament by quoting from Hamlet:

"Oh, that this too too solid flesh would melt."

I can still see the gleam in Miss Spiess' eye as she presented that clipping to me. I was won over.

I am inclined nowadays to think that Mortimer Adler is right when he says, "Vocational training should be done by industry itself, not by the schools. The curriculum of basic schooling, from the first grade through college, should be wholly liberal and essentially the same for all," although Adler concedes it must be adapted to different pupils in different ways.

Vocational training — even in food management — does no more than fit a man for a limited task. It is stultifying, says Adler. It is not, he says, "education in the human sense at all. It contributes to the production of human goods and services, not to the development of human beings."

The whole issue is, at root, a religious one. We must answer a question: Does a "man's life consist in the abundance of things he possesses?"

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 28

Read Romans 13:1-8

"Owe no one anything, except to love one another; for he who loves his neighbor has fulfilled the law." (Romans 13:8 RSV)

"I wish I knew more about the Bible!" The speaker was a bright student who, at the moment in my senior literature class, realized how little she really knew about the greatest book.

As a public school teacher I am aware of the mandate to keep religion out of the classroom. Yet literature contains so many references to the Bible that I often find myself explaining well-known stories as well as obscure ones—Jephthah's daughter or Job or Ishmael, for example. My teaching should be neutral, but how can I perform as a Christian at the same time?

Paul's letter instructed the Romans to use their individual gifts for the greater good, but he also cautioned them to obey the law. Paul also said that all authority comes from God, and that he who loves his neighbor has fulfilled the law.

My Christian belief should be evident in my respect for students and fellow teachers, my willingness to help beyond the requirements of the job, my gentleness of spirit, and serenity of mind. I try to behave like a Christian so that my students can recognize my source of strength. In living my faith I can speak with a voice louder than words.

PRAYER: Father, help us to live as Christ taught and to love all persons. Amen.

Now is time to prepare for winter '79 storms

All of the weather forecasters are staring into their crystal balls trying to see if the midwest's winter of 1980 will be a repeat of the blizzard of '79.

When the damage was added up, the insured losses from the January storm were estimated at $200 million in Illinois alone, according to some insurance industry sources.

If this year's weather forecasts are correct, according to the Insurance Information Institute, now is the time to start preparing ... not after the first serious freeze or blizzard-like snowstorm. And remember, storms can strike with awesome swiftness.

Preparation at home is important. Remember most food distributors move their products via trucks, and if the storm closes the major highways, it could be several days before normal deliveries are resumed.

Also, power lines are likely to be down, water pressure low or unavailable and telephone service cut off. The Institute realizes that conditions will be uncomfortable for a while, but here are some suggestions that can at least put your mind at ease:

— Have at least one flashlight in good condition, with extra batteries readily available. Also, stock a supply of matches and candles.

— Check all transistor radios and maintain a supply of batteries. This may be your only link with the outside world at some point.

— Stock a generous supply of drinking water and bottled soda and juices. Have extra canned goods and non-perishable foods on hand. Foods that can be eaten without cooking are especially important.

— If you rely on medicines of any kind, make sure that an extra supply is on hand. in case of severe weather conditions, it may be difficult, if not impossible, to obtain a fresh supply.

— Should there be a loss of power, make sure that all appliances are shut off and unplugged. Turn off all switches.

— When a building's heat is turned off, water pipes may freeze and burst, if preventive steps aren't taken. To avoid this all water lines should be drained. Turn off the water at the point it enters the building. Then turn on the water faucet at the lowest point in order to drain the system. Keep valves and faucets open.

— Remain indoors. If you must go outside, wear several layers of clothing for the utmost warmth. Should you venture outside during a blizzard, use a lifeline of rope or cord.

Finally, the Institute points out, remember that your entire community may have been affected and that is may take some time to return to normal. However, by following these suggestions and remaining patient, you should be reasonably comfortable until the emergency is ended.

Jobless rate holds steady in fall

Michigan's unemployment rate held steady at 7.2 percent from September to October. Sluggish auto sales prevented the normal seasonal drop in unemployment last month, said S. Martin Taylor, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Taylor said that unemployment across the state rose by 5,000 in October to 315,000. The jobless increase was offset by a growth in employment of 11,000 which meant there were 4,028,000 people working in Michigan during October.

The current jobless estimates are substantially above the year ago levels when the unemployment rate stood at 5.5 percent with 230,000 out of work.

Taylor explained that usually there is a decline in joblessness from September to October.

"However, this year the auto industry is making an effort to keep inventory levels in line with dealer orders," he said. "Because of slower car and truck sales, there isn't the large production push and resulting employment gains we would expect with the introduction of the new car models."

Other areas in the state's economy did have job gains, Taylor said. There were small increases in non-manufacturing industries, as well as job gains in government with the resumption of classes at the state's colleges and universities and the end of school strikes around the state.

Nationally, the jobless rate rose slightly from 5.8 percent in September to 6.0 percent in October. The number of unemployed in the country last month was 6,182,000.

BARTELL CHIROPRACTIC LIFE CENTER

The highways and streets we drive along have many warning signs we immediately recognize, telling us well in advance that potential danger lies ahead. The human body has a similar set of signals. These critical symptoms are often the forerunners of more serious diseases ... diseases that can be averted if the eight danger signs are heeded in time.

The 8 Danger Signs indicate spinal pressures and tensions on vital nerves:
Headaches
Loss of sleep
Pain between the shoulders
Stiffness or pain in lower back
Stiffness of the neck
Numbness in the arms or hands
Numbness or pain in the legs
Painful joints

Consult your Family Chiropractor

Every occupation creates its own stresses and strains, creating spinal pressure and tension on delicate, sensitive nerves. This is true of office workers as it is of heavy construction laborers; of housewives as it is of children at play. These nervous system "short circuits" adversely affect normal nerve energy flow, robbing the vital organs of their proper controlling force. Chiropractic care releases this latent force and restores the circumstances wherein normal function of these vital organs may be resumed.

Protect your health— See your Chiropractor now!

When any one of these important danger signs appears in a member of your family, you should call your family chiropractor immediately. With quick action on your part, and the training and ability of the chiropractor, it is entirely possible that pain and ill-feeling will be replaced by glowing good health.

Hard at work

Irish construction workers, all of whom happen to be from Cork Towen in Detroit, have begun pumping water from one of 88 completed caissons that will eventually support the new Wayne County Jail at Macomb and St. Antoine streets in Detroit. When completed there will be 102 caissons resting on bed rock 125 feet deep. According to County Commissioner Samuel A. Turner, chairman of the county's Corrections Committee, construction was curtailed a year ago when workers dug into a long forgotten sub basement of old Recorders Court which supposedly was demolished more than 40 years ago. Turner said progress on the new 13-story, 600-cell structure is proceeding on schedule now that the initial problems have been solved. The building is being financed through a half-mill tax levy for five years which will raise $35 million.

Russian language studies makes 'debut' at WCCC

Included within its winter term schedule of classes, Wayne County Community College will introduce two new offerings, Russian Language Studies and Modern Rhythmic Gymnastics.

"We are pleased to continue in our efforts at reflecting an ethnic and international focus of the college's program development" said Dr. Reginald Wilson, president of WCCC. "Our intention as a community-based institution is to offer our students a variety of educational experience, including a view of the world around them. Our new curriculum, which includes Russian Language Studies and Modern Rhythmic Gymnastics, will be taught by a new member of our faculty who is an expert in these fields."

Conducting the college's new programs in Russian Language Studies and Modern Rhythmic Gymnastics is Dr. Zinaida Mironov, a graduate of the College of Physical Culture in Kiev, USSR and The Aspirantura, where she earned her PhD in biological science and geronotology.

Dr. Mironov has published more than 50 professional articles in Russian as well as American scientific journals. Possessor of the master's degree of sports and qualified as a national judge in Modern Rhythmic Gymnastics, Dr. Mironov's credentials have made her well suited for her new Wayne County Community College program in modern gymnastics.

With her husband, Dr. Vladimir Mironov, who teaches at Wayne State University, Dr. Zinaida Mironov has previously developed successful gymnastics programs at Queens College, N.Y., and for the City of Detroit's Department of Recreation.

"My interest in promoting and developing a program in Modern Rhythmic Gymnastics has found a perfect situation in my appointment at Wayne Community College" Dr. Mironov said. "I have hoped to work with people here, and to translate something about the country of my birth to those of America. Also, the experience of training students in the Russian language, or who wish to undertake gymnastics has always been an invigorating thing for me."

Several of the students of Zinaida Mironov have taken their training into the spheres of national and international competition. Notable among them are three local women, Wendy Hilliard, Laura Bell and Karla Newell, all of whom have served as U.S. National Gymnastics Team members, and who received their training from Zinaida Mironov.

"I am encouranging all interested persons to look into my new courses in Gymnastics and Russian Language Studies being offered by Wayne County Community College for its winter term" Dr. Mironov said.

On Dec. 4, the college will sponsor a "Russian Tea Party" at its Downtown Center Multipurpose Room, 1001 W. Fort St., from 5 to 7:00 p.m. The tea party will include displays, ethnic snacks, music, dancing and a special exhibition of gymnastics conducted by Dr. Zinaida Mironov.

For further information concerning Dr. Zinaida Mironov's courses in Russian Language or Modern Rhythmic Gymnastics, call 496-2588.

CITY OF BELLEVILLE
ORDINANCE NO. 79-197

AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR AN ADMINISTRATIVE COORDINATOR AND TO PROVIDE FOR HIS POWERS AND DUTIES.

THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE ORDAINS:

Section 1. Pursuant to the provisions contained in Chapter V, Section 1 of the Charter of the City of Belleville, the Council hereby deems it necessary for the efficient operation of City government to create an additional appointive officer to be known as "Administrative Coordinator".

Section 2. The Mayor shall, with the approval of the Council, within thirty (30) days after the effective date of this Ordinance and thereafter within thirty (30) days after taking office, appoint an Administrative Coordinator.

Section 3. The Administrative Coordinator is hereby designated as the officer to prepare the itemized budget to be submitted to the Council under Chapter VIII of the City Charter.

Section 4. The duties of the Administrative Coordinator shall be as follows:

1. To act as the administrative assistant of the Council. To conduct reviews of all departments and offices to assure optimum utilization of City resources to meet the needs of the citizens and make reports, as necessary, to the Council as he shall deem appropriate.

2. To establish priorities in the performance of City services.

3. To review with the other appointive officers of the City, the functions of each office and make recommendations to assist the appointive officers. He shall report his recommendations and results to the Council.

4. To recommend to the Council adoption of such measures as he may deem necessary or expedient.

5. To act as the Coordinator of grants and Federal funds.

6. To exercise and perform all administrative functions which are not specifically assigned to other appointive officers by the provision of the Charter.

7. To perform such other duties as may be prescribed by direction of the Council.

Section 5. The compensation of the Administrative Coordinator shall be established by the Civil Service Commission with the approval of Council.

Section 6. All Ordinances or portions of Ordinances inconsistent with or in conflict with this Ordinance are hereby repealed.

Section 7. This Ordinance shall be effective on the 8th day of December, 1979.

Through YEPT

DBI to train 50 eligible youth

Beginning in January 1980, the Detroit Business Institute will train 50 eligible youth under the federally funded Youth Employment Training Program (YETP).

Administered through the Wayne County Office of Manpower, YEPT is set up to help youths work towards overcoming employment barriers, namely education, inexperience, social barriers and the inability to persist in job seeking and to survive in an office environment.

The institute's YEPT will be a 9-month intensive course that will teach students the typing and office skills necessary to obtain a secretarial or clerical position. The course employs a non-authoritarian setting, emphasizing hand-on, learn-by-doing methods.

All program expenses and living allowances will be paid at no cost to students.

The classes will begin Jan. 7 and will be held from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Students will be required to spend 25 hours a week in the classroom, during which time they will receive the $3.10 minimum wage.

Classes will include two 6-week orientation sessions on study skills, designed to increase the student's success at the institute and a job search-job retention course designed to provide the student with job readiness.

To qualify for the program, students must be between the ages of 17 and 21, but not necessarily a high school graduate. However, applicants must pass a basic entrance examination.

YEPT is a separate program at the institute and will utilize facilities after regular class sessions. A separate teaching and counseling staff also will be employed for the program.

Prospective students for YEPT can contact the Detroit Business Institute at 479-0660, or the Office of Manpower at 224-7160. The institute is located at 19100 Fort St., Riverview, and at 115 State St., Detroit.

Media personnel seek 'homes' during GOP national convention

Next July 14-18 Republicans from throughout the United States will be converging on the Detroit metropolitan area for the 1980 national convention.

Some 20,000 GOP delegates are expected to attend and will occupy rooms at 175 area hotels and motels.

Add to that group more than 7,000 news media correspondents, not to mention VIPs from throughout the world, also will be among the visiting entourage.

The news personnel and VIPs, however, have been asking for accommodations in private homes in the metropolitan area, according to Norma Laskey, special housing coordinator of the Civic Host Committee, which is coordinating the convention.

Ms. Laskey has issued an appeal to residents interested in housing visitors, whether in their homes or in rooms, cottages or apartments that will be available that week to contact her.

Applications to register your accommodations that are available can be obtained from Ms. Laskey, care of the Civic Host Committee, 275 Veterans Memorial Building, 151 W. Jefferson Avenue, Detroit 48226.

Sneezy Waters appears in 'Hank Williams: Show He Never Gave'

SNEEZY WATERS

"Hank Williams: The Show He Never Gave" has brought country music to the Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts in Detroit.

This musical monologue and portrayal swept Canada from coast to coast last year, winning critics' praise and standing-room-only audiences. Performances at the Music Hall run through Sunday.

Williams, renowned father of modern country music, died near Oak Hill, W. Va., on Jan. 1, 1953. He was 29. The driver of the new Cadillac Fleetwood in which he rode, not wanting to disturb his recumbent passenger, drove for five hours before realizing the man in the back seat was dead. The coroner's report stated alcohol to be present in his bloodstream how much was not specified.

Sneezy Waters stars as Hank Williams in this unusual new piece of musical theatre. Taking place in fictitious setting of a concert hall on New Year's Eve, Dec. 31, 1952, "Hank Williams: The Show He Never Gave" deals with the talent and torment, the loneliness and inspiration encompassed in the personality of one of the musical world's leading legends, as told through a performance on the eve of his death.

Waters' portrayal of a man at odds with his success and identity prompted critics response of the highest order during the show's National Canadian Tour of 1978-79, including the Toronto Star's "a staggering tour de force by an artist of awesome talent," and the same paper's "intuitively accurate and awesome, going far beyond music authenticity or physical resemblance to the real Hank."

Known for both his recordings and songwriting, as well as his own dramatic performances, the late Hank Williams is revered today throughout America and the world as the king and father of modern country music. He became an overnight success in June, 1949, through an unforgettable debut performance at Nashville's Opry — bringing the house down with his version of "Lovesick Blues." Breaking down the barriers between pop forms and country-western music, his audience "crossover" success came with Tony Bennett's 1951 recording of "Cold, Cold Heart," which made No. 1 on national pop charts.

During his short, but hard-living lifetime, Hank Williams wrote and recorded a countless list of hit songs, which by now have become standards, recorded by some of the most successful entertainers in all phases of contemporary music. Just a few of these are "I Can't Help It (If I'm Still In Love With You)," "Hey Good Lookin'," "Your Cheatin' Heart," and "I'm So Lonesome I Could Cry."

"Hank Williams: The Show He Never Gave" was written by Maynard Collins, is produced by Wesley Rose of Acuff-Rose Musicals Inc., Robin McNeill and Dawn Harwood-Jones, and is directed by Peter Froehlich. Performances at the Music Hall run through Saturday at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday at 6:30 p.m. All tickets are $8 and can be purchased at the Music Hall box office, 350 Madison Avenue, Detroit, or by calling 963-7680 between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. through Saturday.

Out-county officials form re-organization task force

A frustrated group of suburban mayors, township supervisor and caucus of out-county commissioners, representing 1.3 million Wayne County residents, have agreed to create their own strong ad hoc task force to provide Gov. William Milliken and the State Legislature with recommendations on the re-organization of the county.

"The elected officials feel the future of Wayne County has been improperly placed in the hands of two devisive political powers — Milliken and Detroit Mayor Coleman Young — without regard for either the taxpayers or the communities most affected by reorganizational decision," explained County Commissioner Thomas Presnell, chairman of the meeting.

The group, representing some 29 cities and townships of suburban Wayne County, included Dewey Henry, director of the 14-city Downriver Community Conference organization; Mayor Edward McNamara of Livonia, Mayor William Daniels, Inkster, Mayor William Brainard of Southgate, Mayor Frank B. Swapka of Dearborn Heights and mayors and supervisors from Plymouth Township, Rockwood, Lincoln Park, Redford Township, Grosse Ile Township, Belleville, Allen Park, Riverview, Rockwood and 10 outcounty commissioners.

Presnell said the members indicated they were tired of being ignored by the Governor and planned to send him a telegram explaining their position and to select their own spokesman to meet with the Governor on a one-to-one basis, much as has been done by Mayor Young.

"A 7-man steering committee will be chosen with two representatives from cities with 50,000 or more population (based on SEMCOG census figures), one from cities less than 50,000 one supervisor from among the 10 townships involved, and three suburban county commissioners," Presnell said.

Congressman honored

Congressman William D. Ford (left) accepts a special award from Dr. William Simmons, superintendent of the Wayne County Intermediate School District. The award, for "the outstanding leader from government who has significantly contributed to education," was given recently by the Michigan Association of State and Federal Program Specialists. Congressman Ford is chairman of the Post-secondary Education Subcommittee of the House of Representatives. Samuel Ulsaker, founder of the association, commented that the inscription on the plaque was uniquely appropriate for Congressman Ford — "A Good Leader is not restricted by the way 'things have always been done.' His leadership is a continuing search for the best way, not the most familiar."

Did you know?

Have you ever wondered what federally funded programs are available for your community or organization or how to apply for funds?

The Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service has a computerized program available that will identify federal programs that are able to help out in any one of 20 major categories, such as transportation, health, community development, consumer protection, business and commerce, environmental quality and education.

A brochure detailing the program is available free at any County Cooperative Extension Service office or by calling 721-6550, between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

'A Christmas Carol'

A dramatization of the Charles Dickens' classic "A Christmas Carol" will be presented at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 30, Dec. 1, 7 and 8 and at 2 p.m. Dec. 2 and 9 at Wayne State University's Bonstelle Theater. Appearing in the production is Gary Righettini who will portray the character of Ebenezer Scrooge. For tickets and further information, contact the Wayne State University theater box office at 577-2972.

Bonstelle Theatre stages Dicken's 'Christmas Carol'

Charles Dickens' immortal classic, "A Christmas Carol," will be presented Nov. 30, Dec. 1, 7 and 8 at 8:30 p.m., and Dec. 2 and 9, at 2 p.m., at Wayne State University's historic Bonstelle Theatre. The 19th century story has been adapted for the stage by Barbara Field.

Perhaps Dickens' most famous work, "A Christmas Carol" includes some of his best remembered characters — Ebenezer Scrooge, Bob Cratchit and Tiny Tim.

The play, like the story, takes place on Christmas Eve, when a miserly Ebenezer Scrooge is visited by "spirits." The spirit of his late partner Jacob Marley, with the assistance of the ghosts of Christmases Past, Present and Future, attempt to change Scrooge's "Bah, Humbug!" attitude towards the very special holiday into one of goodwill towards his fellowmen.

Leading this cast of colorful characters are Gary Righettini as Scrooge, Phillip W. Moss as the creator of the tale, Charles Dickens, and Robert Stormont as Scrooge's Clerk, Bob Cratchit.

Also appearing in the production are Dennis Wrosch, William Shanks, Rory O'Conner, Theresa Kormanik, Mary A. Eldridge, Margaret Arsenault, Mark A. Corkins, Thomas Raymond, Charles A. Sock, Lisa Sheree Grimm, Donna Reczek, Diane Haddock, James Turcsanyi, Kors van Mourik, Michael Brown, Martin Molson, Jack Rosemary, Gary Creacy, Steve Bruce, Randy Swansey, Kim Cook, Sharon Messinger, David Preuss, Alan Ribant, Kathy Paraventi, Jennifer Roberts, Grace Aiello, Marueen Remisiewicz, Ursula Buckanes, Amy Beer and Raphael Aiello as Tiny Tim.

The production is directed by Anthony Schmitt with scenic design by Stephen G. Sherwin, lighting by Marc Riske and costumes by Marilyn Renaud.

Tickets and information are available at the Wayne State University Theatre Box Office, Cass and Hancock, Detroit 48202, telephone 577-2972.

Consolidation

Renewed discussion in Van Buren Township and Belleville about a possible consolidation of the two communities, has followed the decision by the state Boundaries Commission to activate a 1973 proposal to merge the two Western Wayne County communities.

But any conclusions about the eventual chances of the consolidation happening, are premature at best.

While reduced operating costs appear to be the reason for Belleville's interest in the proposal, a fear of increased taxes in Van Buren promises to remain the key issue in any new debate of the merits of the uniting of the two communities on the shores of Belleville Lake.

And interestingly enough, it would appear more likely that Belleville would be opposed to the plan while Van Buren favored it. But that is not the case.

Belleville, a lovely little town still retaining much of the romance of small towns everywhere, has a great deal going for it, while Van Buren, still to face the influx of new families seeking space to grow, could be expected to suffer the pangs of growth, and the resulting spiraling cost of government.

Given such a situation, it would have been normal to expect Belleville to resist the change and Van Buren to favor it. But perhaps, logic is no substitute for emotion.

While it would of course be in the best interest of all parties to thoroughly investigate the advantages and disadvantages of any consolidation move, we believe that a good argument could be made for retaining the existing situation.

Our communities have just come through an era where big was viewed as better, and small was viewed as backward.

We do not believe that premise has proven itself. On the contrary, big has proven to be unmanagable while small has demonstrated its ability to spur community identity and pride.

While the downtown streets wouldn't change, viewing Belleville as only Van Buren's downtown district would remove not only the small town glamour of the community, but a portion of the strong feeling of identity which exists.

So, we suggest that residents of Van Buren and Belleville study the proposal to unite the communities, but they should not make a decision only on the cost effectiveness of such a move.

They should also weigh the results of such action on the basis of how it will affect future generations and their ability to identify with their town.

Terms

Three weeks ago we devoted a portion of this space to the subject of a possible revision of the Romulus city charter.

We concluded that in light of the changes which have taken place in Romulus over the past two years, that maybe it was time to consider a four year term for mayor, staggered terms for council, and the elimination of the treasurer and clerk from direct election.

Feed-back from that editorial comment leads us to believe that the time is right for such a change.

It is important to note going into any discussion concerning such a change, that this concept in local government is not either new or unique in this area.

In the City of Westland, the mayor is elected to a four year term, city council is elected to staggered terms of four and two years with the four year terms going to the three highest vote getters every two years.

In the City of Wayne, with a city manager form of government, the office of mayor, is filled by a council vote, but the city council is elected to staggered terms as in Westland.

In Inkster, the mayor is elected directly by the people, but like Romulus, the entire council stands for re-election each two years. Residents of that community have recently elected a charter review commission which has recommended a change to the staggered term concept for council.

In Belleville, council is elected to staggered terms also.

We believe that such a change in Romulus would considerably improve local government. But until recently, we were reluctant to support such change until the community demonstrated a measure of stability.

And we believe that Mayor William Oakley has provided that stability.

In addition, political factions on council have moderated to an extent that would allow the community to benefit from having council continuity continue beyond the customary two year terms.

We believe that the next mayor of Romulus should serve the city for four years.

Romulus has shown that it is able to intelligently select its future leaders. Those leaders should be given the opportunity of effectively fading.

Legislation on licensing

By GARY OWEN
State Representative-22nd District

Legislation which I introduced to speed the handling of state licensing complaints by consumers has been approved by the House Committee on State Affairs.

The effects of piecemeal legislation covering the licensing and regulation of the professions has become an administrative nightmare.

Licensing of professions began in Michigan in the 1880's and has expanded steadily since that time. While the professions licensed in the early years were primarily in the healing arts area, the range has broadened considerably.

Today, approximately 120 professions are in some way regulated in Michigan.

Each time a profession has been made subject to licensing, it has been done by the enactment of a separate statute. These statutes usually established an independent board appointed by the Governor. The boards were invariably composed entirely of members of the profession being regulated.

In 1965 the Executive Organization Act was adopted to transfer to the Department of Licensing and Regulation (L&R), a substantial number of licensing boards. Thus, the Department now has some degree of supervisory authority over 35 professional licensing fields.

However, the licensure statutes within the Department not only differ in the measure of authority granted to licensure boards, but complaint processing, compensation for board members, board member appointments, frequency of board meetings, development of entry examinations, rule promulgation and disciplinary authority also vary.

In sum, the Department lacks the authority and systems with which to effectively manage all of the boards.

A special legislative committee which I chaired has been studying the problem since 1975 and has introduced comprehensive legislation to address these issues and codify the statutes within L&R into a uniform system.

The committee uncovered widespread dissatisfaction with the handling of consumer grievances. Consumers have found the existing system inflexible, lethargic and mired in conflicts of purpose, interest and objectives. There is a wide variance among agencies in the Department in effectiveness and willingness in redressing consumer complaints and resolving licensee disputes.

One major provision of the bill consolidates the complaint process into a single properly staffed system. It sets up a timetable for complaint resolution.

The special committee also found that inconsistencies and inequities clearly exist in the qualifications for licensure. The validity of requirements as to age, training, experience, citizenship, etc., are open to question.

The bill vests the Department with the duty of licensing and regulation in a uniform manner that protects the public health, welfare and safety. It creates a commission on professional and occupational licensure within the Department assigned the responsibility of reviewing all existing licensure statutes to make recommendations to the Legislature as to the need for such licensure and any alternative regulatory mechanisms which might be available.

Editor's log

Brother - Editor - Publisher - Citizen

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

I have only occasionally, in the past, delved into the inner workings of newspapers.

Such omission I'm sure, was appreciated by many of our readers, but a conversation last week, prompts this piece.

The visit to Michigan by my brother from New Mexico, provided the family with one of its now infrequent family round-table discussions.

And since my brother's brother is involved in the newspaper business, eventually the conversation came around to this industry.

It was his observation that some newspapers have been less than eager to publish information critical of either advertisers or prominent local citizens within their pages.

His hometown daily, for example is viewed as less than responsive to our changing society. Brother wove a tale of intrigue involving a possible land fraud scheme in his community.

It seems that a local 'fellow' who managed to fall upon extremely good fortune in the shape of an oil field, has used his new found wealth to indulge his every fancy.

When not actively pursuing his fancies, fellow engaged himself in the task of separating the Federal Government from its land.

The point of all this is not that brother or fellow are any different than anyone else, but only that their local 'newspaper' may be.

When brother came upon fellow's scheme, he was quick to try and thwart the evil deed.

Aware of course, as everyone is aware, newspapers are the very corner stone of the community. The watch dog, the crusader for all that is good — brother contacted his local 'editor.'

While editor was happy to talk to brother about fellow, he was not happy to talk to 'publisher' about fellow, who was a leading local citizen.

Editor refused to run story exposing the questionable activities of fellow, and brother is angry at publisher.

At this point in time, brother runs across a former 'writer' for the newspaper who spills his guts about the list of untouchables the newspaper maintains.

According to writer, talking to brother, newspaper is protecting fellow, because publisher has told editor he must. In addition, newspaper has many other favorite subscribers imune to the probing eye of the free press.

Brother then decides to expose not only fellow, but newspaper, publisher and editor also.

But since there is only one paper in town, he is unable to get his expose into print.

Seeking the only reasonable alternative in a free society, brother discusses with 'investor' the possibility of starting a new publication to expose newspapers.

Learning quickly what we in the business have known for some time, that there is no future in this business, brother decides to hang-up his crusade against fellow, editor, newspaper and publisher when investor discovers that the only reason fellow doesn't own the local newspaper is because he fancies making money.

While brother is somewhat pleased that fellow has now come under the watchful eye of higher authorities, his disdain of newspaper, publisher, and editor remains.

Perhaps, somewhere in the far southwest, there is a newspaper that has refused to disclose information beneficial to the best interests of the 'citizens'. But that paper continues to be supported by citizen who pays the fare.

Maybe in the final analysis, newspaper, publisher, editor, citizen, and brother all have one thing in common.

A vital need for better communications.

Chamber Chatter

By RICHARD L. LESHER
President, Chamber of Commerce of the United States

What a difference a year can make! In 1978, while still President Carter's Treasury Secretary and chief economic spokesman, Michael Blumenthal offered this lucid explanation for the nation's number one problem. "Inflation," he said, "is caused by a number of factors that act together and interact in strange and mysterious ways."

When Mr. Blumenthal made that statement, he was still a member in good standing of the Administration's team — that group of inflation-fighters who use words like "restraint" to describe policies that have given us a near tripling in the rate of inflation in less than three years. Now, however, Mr. Blumenthal has bid farewell to his old friends. Once again he is a free man ... and is he ever speaking out!

In a devastating critique of his own experiences, Mr. Blumenthal recently told the Washington Post why the Administration's anti-inflation efforts have failed. Citing what he called the "basic schizophrenia within the Administration," Mr. Blumenthal said the president has never developed "a clear, simple, single economic philosophy."

He notes, for example, that the president and his advisers are committed to fighting inflation, "if for no other reason than that they know (inflation) is politically damaging."

But then he singles out the Administration's liberals who he said believe that "...fighting inflation hurts poor people and that we have to be very careful how we fight inflation in order not to hit the natural constituency of the Democratic Party."

He concludes: "So there has been an effort to fight inflation, but not too hard. It was tighten the belt, but don't cut out any important programs; cut down on government regulation, but don't offend any special interest groups. It made it difficult for the president to stand up and say: 'My economic philosophy is that inflation is the No. 1 problem, and that's what I'm going to stick to.'

We can confirm from personal experience the truth of Mr. Blumenthal's complaint. At a White House meeting earlier this year, the Administration's inflation czar, Alfred Kahn, criticized the Chamber and told us he just could not understand our position. We told him to listen one minute and let us explain it to him.

First, we warned that inflation is far more severe than his Administration realized; second, we said his belief in wage and price guidelines is not just wrong, but counterproductive, because what is really needed to fight inflation is less government spending and regulation; third, we suggested that a fixation on specific, single numbers for guidelines for all industries virtually guaranteed failure, and fourth, we urged his Administration to stop its demagoguery and to start developing substantive policies that would treat the real causes of inflation. The White House has been unhappy with us ever since.

Others have agreed with the Chamber. Recently, a high-level official of the Department of Commerce said the Chamber has been right all along, and that only a substantive anti-inflation effort would win the public's confidence.

The Wall Street Journal has run several brilliant editorials stressing the need to combine spending and regulatory restraints with significant tax rate reductions. In other words, we must also fight inflation on the supply side of the economy by providing individuals and businesses greater incentives to work, save and invest. This, in turn, would finally generate genuine opportunities for the poor.

One look at our competitive record against our major trading partners illustrates the logic of the Journal's plea. During the past few years we have experienced the lowest rate of savings, the lowest rate of productivity increase, the second lowest rate of investment and a declining rate of growth. How's that for progress?

Unfortunately, the Administration does not care much for incentives. The government claims allowing people to keep more of what they earn is inflationary. So whenever we suggest incentives, they're apt to cry out GREED; we request a tax reduction (even a morsel would help), but they demand huge new tax increases; we beg for some — any — cut in federal spending, and they bust the budget by increasing spending approximately 17 percent during the last half of 1979, while looking for still better ways to control our wages and prices.

Consistency has not been the hallmark of this administration — or the 96th Congress for that matter. It's time to recognize we can't have it both ways, and that inflation must be brought under control, for the benefit of all Americans.

For advice

Ask Carol Premo

By CAROL PREMO, C.S.W.

Carol Premo, a Certified Social Worker in private practice in Belleville, Mich., will be presenting weekly answers to problems which may have been the source of either joy or pain for some of our readers.

You are invited to ask Carol about a problem or discuss a solution by mailing your letter to: Carol Premo, Associated Newspapers, 47818 W. Huron River Drive, Belleville, Mich. 48111.

Dear Carol,

I'm incarcerated at Jackson State prison in Jackson, Michigan at the moment. I read your column in the newspaper often. I decided to drop you a few lines, maybe you can be of some help to me.

I don't know if it's advice I'm seeking or what. Anyway here is my problem. I've been incarcerated for quite a few years now and loneliness seems to be getting the best of me. I need to hear from people in society. I guess I just need to feel cared about. I've lost all contact with the outside world. My family and friends seem to have just forgotten that I even exist. I hope you can help me solve this problem. I'm originally from Inkster, Michigan. I'm 30 years of age and am a gentle hearted black man wanting and needing love and affection. Please answer.

Prisoner

Dear Sir,

I decided when I first started to write this column not to put people in contact with each other and so your name and address have been deleted. However, here's some advice.

Your loneliness is certainly understandable and written contact might really help to fill in some of the alone times and to keep you up with what's going on in society.

Try suggesting to your warden that an "inmate-citizen pen-pal" program be established. You could volunteer to do the ground work involved in setting it up and contact various organizations, such as clubs and churches. Some churches have already been involved in similar projects and you can probably find some which would be interested. Sounds like it might be a worthwhile and fun project for a lot of people. Good luck.

Dear Carol,

I have a problem that I'm sure some other girls my age have. (I'm almost 15).

Well, it all started last year. I liked this guy (I'll call him Bruce) and he liked me a lot too. So we went together about a month and a half until things did not work out so well anymore. He found this girl and decided to drop me like a hot potato. I liked him so much that I often cried over him.

Finally I tried to forget him.

Well, after Bruce and the other girl broke up, she found someone else and Bruce found me again. (This was this year). So he liked me again and my first mistake was to go back with him. Carol, he changed a lot since he and I were together before. I didn't "do" some things he wanted so it only lasted a week. Again I was hurt and used.

Last week, I went to a party and Bruce was there. We see each other sometimes but don't talk much. I stayed away from him but again it was gradually holding hands, and being just by each other again. Other couples were kissing and things, and well, that's not my bag. I like to hold hands and be by him, but I don't like to really go beyond that.

Is something wrong with me?! So I found out Bruce was just using me again, trying to get "some." I have a lot of feelings for Bruce and don't want him to leave, but I don't want to be made a fool of anymore.

I've been told I'm very pretty and could get someone else, but I don't want anyone else. I want to forget Bruce and just be friends with guys. How do I forget Bruce, and not be walked on anymore?

Won't Forget

Dear Won't Forget,

No, there is nothing wrong with you for having values and standing by them. In addition Bruce is not making a fool out nof you, he is making a fool out of himself by showing how immature and insensitive a guy he really is.

You may find it a little difficult to forget Bruce for awhile because he will probably keep coming back to you.

Word will ultimately get around about how selfish and demanding he is and you may be the only one who will talk to him.

Hopefully by that time you will like and respect yourself enough to give him his permanent walking papers. If you can keep away from him long enough and make other friends, I think you will find time heals all wounds. Particularly when what you are trying to forget is a heel.

Logic over politics

By EDWIN FEULNER

It is not often that reason and logic win out over politics. So chalk one up for Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) and the able attorneys at the Washington Legal Foundation, who came away victorious in the first round of their lawsuit challenging President Carter's decision to terminate America's defense treaty with Taiwan without seeking Senate approval.

The President announced his decision on December 15 of last year, calling termination of the 25-year-old defense pact a necessary step in the "normalization" process with Communist China.

Senator Goldwater and two dozen House and Senate colleagues quickly filed suit, claiming that the President can not unilaterally cancel a treaty any more than a President, with a simple stroke of his pen, can enter into a binding treaty.

The Constitution is very clear on the matter, saying that the U.S. Senate by a two thirds vote must concur in the making of all treaties.

Armed with both the logic and language of the Constitution, a brilliantly persuasive case was prepared by attorneys at the non-profit legal foundation, one of the country's new-breed of conservative public interest law firms.

And on October 17, word came from the chamber of U.S. District Court Judge Oliver Gasch that the judge had ruled in favor of Senator Goldwater and his colleagues.

In his decision, Judge Gasch said that one thing was clear; that in order to alter the basic law of the land, a President needs the approval of Congress. Since treaty termination is somewhat a gray area, the judge offered two courses the President could have followed.

1) He could have sought the approval of two thirds of the Senate, as he must in entering into a treaty commitment; or

2) He could have sought the approval of a simple majority of both Houses of Congress, as he must in seeking to repeal any other law of the land.

The President, of course, chose neither, opting instead to act as a majority of one.

"The important point is that treaty termination generally is a shared power, which cannot be exercised by the President acting alone," the judge wrote. "Neither the Executive nor Legislative branch has exclusive power to terminate treaties.

"At least under the circumstances of this case — involving a significant mutual defense treaty with a faithful ally, who has not violated the terms of the agreement, and the validity of which has not otherwise been destroyed — any decision of the United States to terminate that treaty must be made with the advice and consent of the Senate or the approval of both Houses of Congress. That decision cannot be made by the President alone."

Judge Gasch's decision came none too soon, since the treaty was set to terminate on December 31.

The next step is up to the court of appeals, which began its deliberations on November 13. We'll keep our eyes on this one, since it is sure to land squarely in the lap of the Supreme Court. It will be the first time in 200 years of Constitutional history that the federal courts have been called upon to rule on this question.

In the meantime, you can be sure the issue will heat up again in both the House and the Senate.

Reflections

God masters geometry

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

As I was driving home the other evening I turned on the news and heard that a senator was attempting to put prayer back in the schools.

It has been a long time since Madeline Murray O'Hair, with a soul full of hate, managed to persuade our lawmakers that prayer in school should be illegal.

The clouds were hanging low and with dark forcefulness were chasing the daylight from the skies. The winds were howling. It was an eerie time and the car veered with the wind, but I held on to the wheel and let my memories swirl around me.

The wind whipped dying leaves across my windshield and I swerved to miss a kid lying low on his bicycle having no idea where he was going.

And I remembered ...

I was fifteen and I hated geometry. Besides there was a kid in my class whose father was a math teacher at the college, and he was so smart he made me sick. How I envied him being able to get all "A's" even if his neck was skinny and his Adam's Apple went up and down when he swallowed.

The geometry teacher was 5'10" at least, with an ample bosom on which lay a long strand of pearls, which rose and fell as she talked. And sometimes when she wasn't talking.

Her name was Miss Wittiman, and her glasses were always sliding down her nose. Her mouth rarely smiled, but sometimes one caught a glitter in her eyes that could be interpreted as finding something humorous in what she was looking at.

It was a cold, snowy day, the day God got me through geometry. Miss Whittiman had announced that she was giving a surprise test and there was a lot of groaning going on all around me.

My hands were icy and my heart pounded, for I hated geometry but I hated flunking more. As the teacher gave me my test paper I glanced over it and I wanted to cry. The end had come. I would have to take geometry over again. I glanced around the room and caught the Adam's Apple going up and down to meet a wide grin on the skinny face.

That did it. I couldn't let him beat me. I had to have help. I put my arms down on the desk and buried my head.

"Dear God," I prayed. "Help me with the test. HELP ME!"

The next day Miss Wittiman stood before us. The pearls rose up and down, and there was no glitter in her eyes. She peered over her glasses.

"Yesterday I gave you a test, and in that test I put some surprise questions to test how well you think. I didn't expect any of you, with the exception of Glen (Adam's Apple) to get them correct. I only wanted to see how you would tackle them. However, two young women got a perfect score."

She looked around the room.

"Roberta," she said to the pretty young thing sitting directly behind Adam's Apple. "Would you please go to the board and show us how you worked problems 10 and 11?"

Roberta flushed and twisted in her seat, finally blurting out that she couldn't do them. Adam's Apple raised his hand and gamely announced he had let her copy his paper.

Miss Wittiman said nothing. She didn't need to. The pearls were saying it all. Then she turned to me, sitting across the room and asked me to go to the board.

I flushed too. I squirmed in my seat, and then I sent up a silent plea. "Help me."

And he did. I did those problems on the board.

After class I marched up to Miss Wittiman and I said to her, "I know you are wondering how I knew how to do those problems." She nodded, standing silent and stern.

"I asked God to help me, and he did."

The smile began in her eyes and slowly traveled over her face. She pushed the glasses up on her nose, and the pearls danced a crazy jig.

"Bless you," she whispered.

I got an "A" in Geometry that year. I think Miss Wittiman helped God a little bit on that.

DOUG TOLSON

Tolson, two-time state champ, is captain of ANP team

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

As a high school athlete, Wayne Memorial's Doug Tolson has done it all.

Undefeated in his junior and senior years, two-time Great Lakes 8 Conference champ, Tolson became only one of two cross country runners in Michigan who successfully defended his Class A state title.

Picked All-American as a junior, the 17-year-old senior will undoubtedly find his name in that coveted line-up again this year.

Meanwhile, he finished fourth at the national regionals held in Glenwood, Illinois and qualified to run for the national championships on Dec. 8 in San Diego, California.

Enterprise-Roman

Tolson this week is named to lead The Associated Newspapers' 1979 All-Area Cross Country Team. He is joined by Cherry Hill's Ramon Lara, Bruce Brock (Robichaud), Paul Coburn (Livonia Franklin), Santo Campbell (Westland John Glenn), Andy Stopchinski (Wayne Memorial), Tom Andrews (John Glenn), Jeff Brostow (Livonia Franklin), Mike Michno (Cherry Hill) and Tim McIntyre (Belleville).

TOLSON'S remarkable accomplishments are credited to his devotion and hard work, says Wayne Memorial coach Ernie Righetti who uses superlatives to describe the young athlete. "There isn't a college or university in the country who wouldn't like to have Doug in their line-up next fall.

"I consider him the greatest runner this area has ever produced," Righetti added.

Breaking from precedent, the ANP is also proud to name Tolson as the All-Area's Cross Country captain, an honor never before bestowed upon an area athlete.

LARA trailed Tolson across the finish line during the tough Western Wayne Invitational. He is an excellent athlete whose versatility shows up in swimming. Ramon also has earned an All-Area stripe as a member of the Spartan swim team. The 5-9, 17-year-old senior won the Tri-River Conference league championship and was the individual winner at the New Boston Huron Invitational. He finished second at the Shrine Invitational and, with teammate Mike Michno, co-captained Cherry Hill to a second place in the league. He qualified for the state by finishing sixth at the regional.

"Ramon is a very coachable athlete and a fine competitor," said Joe Grasley, who is dropping out of coaching after 14 years with the Spartans as head track and cross country mentor. "He also has a great deal of natural talent."

BROCK wound up his senior campaign with an untarnished 10-0 record and with the Suburban Athletic Conference and the Dearborn Heights' city titles. He set school records, league marks and survived the Class B regional where he finished runner-up. He was the sixth best Class B runner in the state. That feat entitled him to All-State recognition, the first runner to earn that coveted title in cross country at the high school.

"Bruce put a lot of mileage in his plans to reach the top," said Robichaud Coach Jim Hadley. "He has not gone unnoticed by college coaches. I feel he's an excellent college prospect."

COBURN owns the Northwest Suburban Conference title, winning the championship in a record-shattering time of 15:37 and erasing from the boards the mark set by another All-Area alumni, John Fritz. Fritz ran the three miles in 15:49. A holdover from last year's All-Area club, Paul placed third at the WW, a feat he also duplicated at the Class A regionals. Undefeated in dual meets, Coburn should be the man to catch in the area a year from now.

"Paul was the team leader all year," said Franklin Coach Bob Holmes. "He has an outstanding future ahead of him."

CAMPBELL is a sophomore, one of those rare talents who could develop into another state leader with time and hard work. He earned all-Northwest Suburban Conference accolades by finishing fourth at the conference meet and he also survived the Class A regional by placing 17th. Although an underclassman, Santo surprised the veterans at the state finals where he managed to cross the finish line 30th.

"When you consider that he has two full years of eligibility and competition before him," said Glenn Coach Jerry Szukaitis, "then you know why we're looking forward to next season. Campbell is one heck of a prospect."

STOPCHINSKI, like most of his teammates, ran in Tolson's shadows. But Andy's contributions to Wayne's success were pivotal in the outcome of meets.

"We knew we had the No. 1 runner," Righetti pointed out, "but cross country meets are decided on the results of the top five. And Andy was a consistent second. He gave us those points that determined whether we would win or lose."

Stopchinski earned all-league consideration in the Great Lakes 8 Conference and missed qualifying for the state because of illness.

ANDREWS played a key role in lifting John Glenn to the Northwest Suburban Conference championship. Three teams went into the championships tied for first and the

Grasley is leaving coaching

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

For 14 years Joe Grasley and I have been exchanging barbs via the telephone.

And this will probably be the last year.

Grasley, after coaching some of the finest high school cross country and trackmen at Cherry Hill and western Wayne County has decided "it's time to devote more time to the family."

JOE GRASLEY

"I looked around and discovered my kids are now teenagers," Grasley said as he nominated his final two candidates for The Associated Newspapers' All-Area Team. "I said to myself, 'Hey, when did they grow up? Where have I been? When did this all happen?' And you realize that a lot of time has been spent away from the family, away from the kids.

"You know I don't regret giving that time to our young athletes, but, in many ways I feel that I have shortchanged my own kids and I want to make it up to them," Grasley added.

During his era — and it has to be considered an era for all of Grasley's accomplishments — he has won a handful of Tri-River Conference championships, produced a couple of All-Americans, including "little" Billy Johnson who this week earned that coveted title as a member of Hillsdale College's cross country team.

It seems that the old guard is breaking up.

For better or worse, you have to accept it.

Exit one coach, enter Rev. Otis Johnson. "Oh, God."

"Did you see the movie on TV last night?" Mr. Johnson asked.

"Yes, why?"

"I thought of you, that's why. And I thought I'd say a little prayer for you because I feel the pressures are getting to you."

How's that?

"How in heaven's name could you pick an All-Area football team without Rick Rogers," Johnson asked. "He is probably the greatest running back in Wayne Memorial's history. In fact, he will probably be one of the greatest halfbacks this area has ever seen. Not only don't you pick him on the team, but he isn't mentioned for consideration in the Honorable Mention."

"Oh, God."

It is true, somehow while compiling the facts for the ANP's All-Area Class A grid team our sports staff overlooked Rogers who is truly one of the most exciting offensive runningbacks this area had an opportunity to watch this season. He belongs on the team. And we hope the young athlete comes back next year and makes All-State.

Mr. Johnson also said that if he had to pick a team that would go all the way in Class B girls' basketball, he'd go with Inkster.

"Inkster's going to win the Class B state championship," Otis reassured us. "I know that's putting a lot of pressure on those girls, but I know they can do it — and you can print that."

And while we're doing that, we hope voters in the New Boston Huron School District get on the ball and vote for the millage proposal that will keep the district afloat and save competitive athletics.

According to a memo signed by Hank Smith, Huron's AD, "New Boston Huron will operate a "Varsity-ONLY" athletic program until Dec. 10. We will keep all of our commitments to scheduled athletic contests through that date."

The school district will conduct a millage election on Dec. 10. There are two proposals for additional operational millage on the ballot and if the first proposal (for 4.47 mills) passes, then the varsity ONLY program will be continued. If both proposals (second proposal for 4.50) passes, then lower level athletic teams will be added to the current program.

And if all proposals go down the drain ...

The death knell for sports in that school district will have sounded.

"This situation has placed a tremendous burden on the educational program of the Huron School District," Smith writes. "We, of course, have to feel confident that at least the first proposal will be accepted by the voters."

Let's hope so.

Tigers to play benefit cage game

The Detroit Tigers are coming to town.

And for a good reason.

The Tigers will help raise money for the National Burn Institute in Ann Arbor on Dec. 15 when they switch their baseball jerseys and play a benefit basketball game.

The game, scheduled for 7:30 p.m., at Wayne Memorial High, will feature such prominent and outstanding Tigers as pitcher Mark "The Bird' Fidrych, Ron LeFlore, Lou Whitaker and Alan Trammell.

Brought to you by the Wayne Jaycees, fans will be able to see their favorite Tigers for the price of $2.50 (adults) and $2 for students and children under 12.

Group sales are also available.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Wayne Jaycees and at the Wayne Community Center. For further information please contact Bennie Rice at 721-8889 or Kerry Erdman at 326-4128.

'Coach of the Year'

Glenn's Szukaitis honored

Pre-season prognostigators didn't figure Westland John Glenn in the Northwest Surburban Conference cross country title race.

But, then, they didn't take into consideration veteran Coach Jerry Szukaitis's desire to coach winners. In his 16th year as the Westland-based high school's cross country coach, Szukaitis surprised the Northwest and walked off with the top prize, the league championship.

"I didn't think we could do it because we were hurting when it came to experience," Coach Szukaitis said. "We didn't have the frontrunners, but we had a lot of kids who were willing to work hard and put in the hours.

"And, any coach will tell you when you have that admirable situation it's going to pay off. It did for us. We had a very balanced league with North Farmington, Livonia Franklin and Garden City East right up there. Our boys worked hard and won it."

The Westlanders also won seven out of their 10 dual meets.

TOM NIEMI

'Lucky seven' for Niemi?

Belleville cagers face tough opponents first

Throughout recorded time, the commercial says, seven has been a lucky omen.

That may be true, but Coach Tom Niemi wants to wait until his team's first four games before he decides upon the good luck or ill luck of his seventh year as Belleville High's head cage coach.

"I don't believe in things like that," said Niemi as he prepares to launch his seventh year. "But I do believe that this team has a closeness and a strong feeling for one another.

"And I am hoping it will carry us over the rough spots," Niemi said.

Niemi's Tigers have a rough road at the beginning of the season. They open up with natural rival, Ypsilanti, Friday night, (Dec. 7), then on Tues., Dec. 11, Plymouth Salem, the perennial Suburban 8 Conference champ, will test them. On subsequent Fridays Belleville runs into Livonia Bentley and Dearborn, two highly-touted league rivals.

"It won't take us long to find out what we're up against and how we stack up against these teams," said Niemi.

Niemi, after losing one of his veteran starters to Ypsilanti a year ago, managed to salvage a 9-11 overall record. He hopes to improve upon that mark with a couple of holdovers from that squad. He has 5-9 junior guard Mike Sampson, an extremely quick, slick ballhandling cager to do most of the work in the backcourt and Charles Blackmon, another 5-8 senior guard to help out.

Scott Straight, a 6-3 senior, is being groomed to play a post and he could be "a good one if everything goes well." Straight knows his way around under the boards at both ends of the court.

The trio forms the nucleus of this year's team.

Niemi also has a strong rebounder in Jeff Patterson, a 6-2 senior who just put his grid uniform into mothballs. Patterson must iron out the rough edges to get ready for the grueling cage campaign.

"Jeff's improved his shooting inside and can jump well," Niemi stressed. "We'll be banking on him to come through for us in the clutch."

Scott Forster, another 6-2 forward-center, will probably see a lot of action. He's improved tremendously, according to the Tiger coach, while Glenn Johnson, a 5-10 senior guard who owns a good jump shot and is an asset on defense, will be muscling his way into the starting line-up.

Add to the Tiger ranks the names of Gary Few, a 5-10 forward; Bruce Rooks, a 5-11, extremely clever defensive guard, and you have some of the names of those will be trying to break Salem's and Bentley's monopoly on the conference title.

Is it Salem whom the Tigers will have to stop in order to make their way to the top of the standings?

"Salem is a powerhouse, but so is Bentley again," sighed Niemi. "They have a lot of height, something we are lacking. And, unfortunately for us we meet our toughest opponents right off the bat."

Don't be discouraged, coach. You know what they say about "seven." And many games are won - or lost - because luck turned its face.

Boards are key to Romulus cage season

Hanna: 'We don't have the big man'

The boards will be the key to Romulus High's cage success - or downfall - this season.

That's the word from third year Eagle Coach Rod Hanna who will open the 1979-80 on the road at Dearborn St. Alphonsus on Friday, Dec. 7.

"If we can get the boards, we will play with anyone this year," Hanna said. "I feel we have the talent to do a lot of things, and I hope we can carry over last year's momentum to this year."

Ranked as high as fourth in the Metro-West a year ago, Romulus won 16 of its 22 games last year. "We were proud of that accomplishment," Hanna said, "and we're going to try to do it again."

But eight of the players - John Kersey, Richard Lewis, Stu Block, Vince Bean, to name a few, have either graduated or moved from the school district, so Hanna must build his team from what is left.

And two of the returnees - Darryl Lewis, a 6-2, 190-pound sturdy forward, and David Casey, a 6-4, 165-pound senior who can move inside or outside could provide the Eagles with a solid foundation to build a winner.

"We played in the tough St. Cecelia and Plymouth Canton summer leagues," Hanna offered, "and I felt we held our own with some of the toughest competition in the state. However, only time is going to tell."

Hanna also will find a place in his starting line-up for Dave Holifield, a 6-2 senior who missed most of the season a year ago due to injuries. Holifield's needed height and scoring power can be put to good use.

During the summer league, a couple of sophomores, Bobby Stewart, a 5-9 playmaking guard, and Troy Williams, also 5-9 and equally respected for his passing and driving ability, made indelible impressions on the Romulus coach.

Others who will help the Eagles in their drive for cage respectability are Stacey Shreve, a 6-2 senior; David Haynes, (5-11), Mark Schick (6-1), Marvin Anderson (6-2), David Earle (6-0), Bill Miller (6-2), Tom Rusan (5-10) and Kevin Wilson (6-0).

From that line-up, it isn't difficult to see that Romulus lacks the 'big man' necessary for combat in state playoffs.

"True," says Hanna, "we don't have the 6-5 or 6-6 player. But we use our speed and have installed a variety of defenses and offenses in hopes of making up for the difference.

ROD HANNA

"And, again," Hanna reiterated, "the boards will be the key factor. If we learn to take control, position ourselves to get our share of rebounds, the rest will get the job done."

Inkster wins SAC title

Vikings head for state playoffs

Undefeated Inkster High will take a perfect Suburban Athletic Conference girls' basketball record into this week's Class B District Playoffs at River Rouge High.

"We have had an exciting season thus far," said Coach Alton Darden, whose team will face the winner of the Cherry Hill-Melvindale game Thursday night at 6:30 p.m. "I feel these girls have accomplished a lot. And their biggest challenge is yet to come."

The Vikings have won 10 of their 13 games thus far. They are also the defending district champs. The championships at Rouge will be decided Friday night at 7:30 p.m.

Inkster is led by Sandra French, a 6-1 junior who is averaging 12 points per game and has 15 rebounds per outing. At the guards, Coach Darden goes with Carla Poole and Lisa Robinson, while Carla Claypool and Ann Guess hold down the forward positions.

Carla Clayborn, a 6-0 cager, usually is the sixth player and the Viking skipper has been able to use his bench this year thanks to a lot of balanced scoring. He has Susan Gillard, Donna Story, Yevette Hughes and Pat Claypool ready for action if needed.

Undefeated Sparks run winning streak to 11

The Westland Sparks, the nation's top-ranked wheelchair cage team, crushed Toledo's Silver Streaks over the weekend to chalk up their 10th and 11th consecutive victories of the 1979 season.

The defending national champs had little trouble winning both ends of a doubleheader as they rolled to a 33-11 first half advantage before going on to win a lopsided 87-20 verdict in the first game.

Ahead 46-21 at halftime, the Sparks also easily won the second game, 103-35.

In the opener in Toledo, Maurice Phillips led the local cagers with 12 points while Wyman Davis and Ted Chapman each contributed 11 points.

Four players reached double figures in the nightcap as Gary Odorowski's 22 points paced all scorers. Davis, Phillips and Chapman accounted for 14 points each.

The Sparks will return to the familiar environment of Mel Bailey Recreation Center this week when they shoot for their 12th and 13th consecutive wins. On Saturday they will tangle with Cleveland's Comets at 7 p.m., then take on California at 9 p.m.

On Sunday, the national champs will wheel on the court at 1 p.m. when they'll meet the Comets and at 3 p.m. go after California again.

6 Inkster gridders on all-SAC team

Inkster's grid squad placed six players on the 23-member Suburban Athletic Conference All-League team, highlighted by Kim Hammons being chosen to quarterback the mythical squad.

Highland Park, undefeated champion of SAC, placed 12 members on the team, Dearborn Heights Robichaud had one, River Rouge placed four and Ecorse did not have any named to the team.

Hammons was a classy 5-9, 170-pound quarterback, who could scramble with the best of them while still possessing a strong passing arm for good yardage.

Joining Hammons on the all-league team from the Vikings were five other seniors, Eric Crouch, a 6-1, 180-pound end; Chris Thompson, 6-1, 180-pound defensive lineman; Earl Taylor, 6-0, 180-pound linebacker; and Keith Hughley, 5-9, 165-pounds and Thaddus Forman, 6-1, 175-pounds, both defensive halfbacks.

Kuhr, Ryznar win league swim titles

LAURA KUHR

Laura Kuhr and Martha Ryznar came up with record-setting performances to capture gold medals at the annual Suburban 8 Conference swimming and diving championships held last week.

Miss Kuhr, who earlier had won the Western Wayne crown in the 50-yard freestyle and the 100-yard backstroke, added the conference title to her long list of accomplishments with a dazzling 25.8 for the 50-yard freestyle.

Miss Kuhr's 25.8 set a new best in that event for Belleville swimmers and qualified her for the state finals which will be staged Friday and Saturday at the University of Michigan.

Miss Kuhr also helped establish a record in the 400-yard freestyle relay as she teamed with Martha Ryznar, Denise Traskos and Melody Clark for a 4:02.8, good for fourth place in the conference and a new school mark.

Miss Ryznar's 58.2 finish for the 100-yard freestyle gave her the gold in that event and also eclipsed the old record. She finished third in the 200-yard freestyle as she touched in at 2:06.9, a school record.

Belleville also wound up third and fourth respectively in the diving as Lori Vicchy compiled 319.6 points and Andrea Whittico piled up 318.10. Trenton's Irene Mogoski walked off with the gold for her 342.4 total.

Teamwise, however, Belleville finished fifth. Dearborn and Bentley shared the 1979 championships as Dearborn came back to avenge a dual meet loss to the Livonians to win the league meet and salvage a half of the title.

Belleville Coach Sam Vicchy said he wasn't disappointed in the overall performance of his team.

"Our problem is depth," Coach Vicchy pointed out. "I feel if we had three or four more swimmers we would have done better. Generally, though, I am pleased with the outcome of the meet."

Ex-Inkster cage stars take on Romulus

Some of the greatest names in Inkster High's long history will be taking their basketball jerseys out of mothballs to take part in a Romulus fund-raiser Friday night.

The Inkster All-Star alumni team will be made up of former all-state, All-Area cagers Eartha Faust, Fred Smiley, Dwayne Fox, Greg Nero, Rickie Hatcher, Bernard Bonam, Rodney Scales, along with Luke Smiley, Hank Moses and Stave McPhean.

Opposing the All-Stars will be Romulus' Nate Davis, Calvin Harris, Emery Long, Bill Anderson, Herb Buckley, Wendell Buckley, James Hall, Frank Nesbitt, Richard Lewis, and John Kersey.

The game is part of a doubleheader which will begin at 6:30 p.m. on Friday. In the opening matchup the Romulus Faculty will clash with their counterparts from Inkster.

The all-star game is scheduled to get underway around 8 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased at Romulus High School from members of the basketball team. The tickets are $1.50 and $2 for students and adults, respectively.

Romulus' "Meet the Team" Night is scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 4 in the high school gym. The members of each team will be introduced to the public and the teams will be divided up for intra-squad games.

Also, the cheerleaders for the 10th grade, junior, and senior varisty teams will make their debuts.

Tickets for that affair are $1 for students and $1.50 for adults.

Churchill places 8 on all-league

Livonia Churchill, which was not expected to do much this year on the gridiron, swept to its third consecutive Western Six title and had eight players named to the 23-man All-League squad.

Five defensive stalwarts and three offensive threats were honored. Leading the defensive team were Ron Schueneman, a 6-0, 165-pound halfback and Bob Anderson, a 5-11,

Plymouth hands Tigers opening day swim loss

Although they managed to stash away nine first places, the Belleville Tiger Swim Club came out on the shortend of a 294-204 decision with Plymouth in their season opener last week.

The Tigers' medley relay team for boys 8-and-under chalked up a victory thanks to Martin Duda, Ricky Schurr, Eric Snider and Daniel Fancher who were clocked in 1:24.0,

In the meantime, Matt Kirchner, Greg Lynch, Daniel Dubisky and Damon Sulkey turned in a 2:33.6 in winning the medley relay for boys 11-12 years old.

A 2:25.3 earned a first place in the medley relay for 13-14 year olds as Calvin Loshinsky, Robert Kirchner, Norman Ferrell and Matt Stoelton combined their efforts.

The Tiger girls got their act together as they posted their only first in the 13-14 year old medley relay. Dawn Delaforce, Kris Griffith, Tracy Bunnel and Stacey Samuels covered the distance in 2:27.95.

Martin Duda's 19.3 for the 25-yard butterfly (8-and-under) was the top time for that event, while Daniel Dubisky churned out a 38.35 in winning the 50-yard butterfly for 11-12 year olds.

Eric Snider, Daniel Fancher, Ricky Schurr and Martin Duda put together a 1:07.12 in winning the 100-yard freestyle, while a 2:17.41 by the foursome of Greg Lynch, Karl Duda, Damon Sulkey and Daniel Dubisky earned for the Tigers a first place in the 200-yard freestyle relay.

In the 200-yard freestyle for 13 and 14 year old swimmers, Norman Ferrell, Matt Stoelton, Calvin Loshinski and Robert Kirchner came away with the gold medal thanks to a 2:04.16 performance.

Wayne to host volleyball clinic

A volleyball clinic and athletic workshop will be hosted by Wayne State University on Dec. 7-9 at the WSU Matthaei Gym for high school women coaches.

The clinic is co-sponsored by WSU and the Women's Equity Action League (WEAL).

Activities will begin at 7 p.m., Friday, Dec. 7 with a coaches clinic designed to inform a school volleyball coach of new coaching techniques, playing skills, and fundamentally conditioning programs.

Several collegiate volleyball coaches from the state and Canada will participate in the clinic.

The athletic workshop will be held at WSU's General Lectures Building, located on Warren and Third Avenue, from 12:30 to 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 9.

The cost is $2 for students, $5 for coaches and parents for the entire weekend. Registration is required for the coaching clinic and the student participation clinic. Observers may also register.

Further information may be obtained by telephoning the WSU athletic department at 577-2150.

Volleyballers begin season in fast pace

The Wayne Co-Ed Volleyball League got off to a smashing start last week as 12 teams divided into two divisions battle for league championships.

Just Like Wine launched the Division A season by taking 17 points from the No Names, sweeping sets of 15-4, 17-15 and 15-12, while Jakes Lounge won the first of two games and 10 points as they beat American Waste 15-12 and 15-11.

Big Boys held on for 10 points over Westland Jaycees winning 17-15 and 15-11 but dropping the middle game 15-3.

Burroughts Blood looked good in Division B play as they turned back their company rivals, Burroughs' Beer 15-5, 15-11 and 15-3. Sentry Drugs also stayed atop of the league with a three-set victory over Nichols Nerds, 15-8, 15-5 and 15-6.

WYAA sets talks

The Westland Youth Athletic Association will hold its general membership meeting at 7 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 6 at the Melvin Bailey Recreation Center in Westland.

Top on the agenda is the election of officers for 1980. Each family who has participated in WYAA programs during the current year is entitled to vote.

A WYAA spokesman said that all major committees will report on 1979 activities.

Over 30 upset

Futurama handed setback by Johnson's, 5-3

What's that saying about streaks? They are made to be broken, aren't they?

Well, Futurama Engineering learned that fact of sports life last week in the Wayne-Westland "Over-30" Hockey League.

And the teacher was none other than arch-rival, Johnson Carbonic.

Johnson's showed goalie Tim Vanderburgh and the league-leaders why it - Johnson's - is the league's highest scoring, most explosive team in the conference. They knocked Futurama out of the unbeaten ranks, 5-3.

And that Johnson victory also ended Vandenburgh's personal shutout streak at two games.

Johnson's took a 2-0 lead into the final period and managed to hang on despite a series of frantic rallies by the losers who came within one goal of catching the upset-minded Johnson's on three separate occasions.

Jerry Robertson's three-goal hat trick was the impetus that powered Johnson's to the key victory. Teammates Jim Thomas and Ron Johnson rounded out the scoring for the victors.

On the other side, Dave Frankling, John Castellanos and Danny Thomas fired in goals.

In one of the biggest "shootouts" of the current campaign, Tastee Freez edged Jake's Lounge, 8-7, in a thriller. Jake's had their problems checking a hot-scoring Terry Carley who had one of his best nights and set a league record when he accounted for five of his team's tallies. He also was credited with three assists.

Tastee Freez built up an insurmountable 4-0 first period lead and appeared well on its way to victory. However, Jake's refused to quit and erupted for four third period tallies of its own and finally tied it up with eight minutes remaining in the game.

Besides Carley's five goals, Howley added a pair and Rod Dittmar collected one. Scoring for Jake's went like this: Dennis McCormick and Corky Hays found the range for two goals each and singles went to Bob Capler, Ray Schmanske and Paul Briski.

Brock Homes skated to an easy 6-1 victory over Jack's Sports Center as Tom Dilaura turned in with three goals for his first hat trick of the season.

Layne Cardinal added two scores to the Brock cause and Jim Drewery got the other. Ron Wojewski scored with one minute left in the game to deny Don Smith a shutout.

The Jock Shop moved within three points of catching league-leader Futurama with a 6-2 win over Extra Point Bar. Barry Anderson gave Extra Point a 1-0 lead early in the game. However, Jock Shop retaliated by scoring the next six goals and it was no contest after that.

Anderson accounted for both Extra Point goals.

Futurama will try to recover from its initial shock on Sunday when it clashes with Jake's at 8:30 p.m. at the Westland Arena. In the nightcap, Extra Point takes on Brock Builders at 10 p.m.

In the meantime, Johnson goes after its second straight win at the expense of Jack's Sporting Center at 9 p.m. at the Wayne Arena. The Jock Shop will entertain Tastee Freez at 10:30 p.m.

Wayne awards letters to Ex-Area gridders

Among the 46 members of Wayne State University's football team who were awarded varsity numberals for this year's campaign are three from the area.

Sophomore Tom Jurewicz, who broke into the varsity line-up this year, got his first varsity letter. Jurewicz is also a former Glenn athlete who lettered in the three major sports at the Westland-based high school.

End Walt Tadday, 5-8, 160; junior interior lineman Bob O'Neil, a 5-9, 165 pounder, and Steve Clemens, a 5-11, 190-pound linebacker, rounded out Churchill's selections on the all-star defensive contingent.

Senior Quarterback Bill Keller, the Chargers' 5-8, 145-pound field general, was placed in charge of the mythical team's offensive unit. He was joined by teammates Darrel Copley, a 5-11, 195-pound right tackle and Dave Luch, a 5-11, 185-pound junior right end.

Walled Lake Western and Farmington Harrison each placed six on the coveted team. Plymouth Canton Waterford Mott and Northville each had one selected.

Farmington Harrison's six contributions included junior Ken Kopko, a 5-11, 175-pound running back; Dave Prestel, a 6-1, 185-pound wide receiver; Dave Markovich, a 6-1, 190-pound left tackle; Steve Weise, 5-8, 150-pound interior lineman; Jim Miller, 5-10, 165-pound linebacker and Mark Alcantera, a 5-8, 150-pound senior who was selected as the kicker on the all-league squad.

Walled Lake Western's half-dozen "cream of the crop" choices included Paul Terrill, a 5-11, 180-pound right guard and Angelo Buttazzoni, a 6-1, 185-pound running back on offense and Carlo Castiglione, a 5-10, 176-pound junior end; Scott Parrish, 6-2, 205-pound interior lineman; Randy Shell, a 5-10, 159-pound junior linebacker and Rob King, a 5-9, 160-pound halfback on the defensive unit.

Westlanders couldn't afford finishing second. And Andrews helped get the job done. A three letter-winner, who tri-captained the Rockets, Tom is one of a handful of Westland runners who received a 1,000 mile award. (The award is presented to an athlete who manages to run 1,000 miles during a single summer of training.) He was also voted Glenn's Most Valuable Athlete in Cross Country.

"Tom did a great job for us," said Szukaitis. "We're going to miss him next year."

BRISTOW was one of Franklin's most reliable runners this year. His credentials include a third place finish in the Northwest Suburban, among the top 10 at the Western Wayne and also a state qualifier. Jeff completed his second year on Coach Holmes's team and will be back to earn a third stripe a year from now.

"Jeff is a very solid performer for us as he has been for the past two years," Coach Holmes said. "You can always count on him in the clutch."

MICHNO broke into Cherry Hill's varsity lineup as a freshman and has remained there ever since. He gave the Spartans a 1-2 punch in the league, usually trailing Ramon Lara across the finish line. He was the third best runner at the West Bloomfield Invitational and fourth best at Shrine. Mike also qualified for the state where he finished 18th. His ticket to the state finals was a runner-up medal at the regionals.

"Mike has to rank with Johnson (Bill) as one of the most dedicated runners in our school's history," said Coach Grasley. "His accomplishments are due to his dedication and hard work."

(Johnson, a former All-Area track & cross country star, went on to Hillsdale College where this year he was named to the All-American team in his college division.)

McINTYRE, a senior with two years of varsity experience behind him at Belleville, proved to be the best on a Belleville team that was faced with some of the toughest opponents in Western Wayne County. Another hard worker, Tim captained the Tigers and earned recognition as an all-conference candidate.

"Tim was the only senior we had on this year's squad," said Coach Dave Medley. "And everyone looked to him for leadership which he provided. He is an outstanding team man."

Like everyone else picked on this year's ANP's All-Area team.

Families 'star' at Thanksgiving feasts

By Mrs. Joseph Spring
699-4021

Mr. and Mrs. George Haft of Church Street entertained members of their family on Sunday, Nov. 18, at a pre-holiday dinner. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones of Bellbrook, Ohio and son Private Keith Jones, who is home on furlough from Fort Bliss, Texas; also Mr. and Mrs. Gary Jahner and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hyde and family from Tecumseh.

Lance Jacobs of Cincinnati, Ohio was a weekend guest of his grandmother, Mrs. Henry Sager of West Columbia Avenue.

Weekend guests at the home of Mrs. S.C. Pierman of East Huron River Drive were her sisters, Mrs. Joseph Allen from Piqua and Mrs. Lewis Pierman from Ottawa, Ohio. All were Thanksgiving Day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jon McClory of South Lyon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clayton returned home on Monday of last week from Mecosta where they had spent the week on a hunting trip. Harold was one of the lucky ones to get a deer.

Holiday guests at the Don White home on Brain Street were their son, Pat and wife from Urbana, Ill.; and son Mike, from Grand Ledge.

Thursday guests at the home of Mrs. Alice Herkimer and daughter, Debbie, of Denton Road were members of the family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Loria and family of Lansing, and Mr. and Mrs. Dewain Watson and family of Potterville.

Holiday guests at the Karr Road home of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Lupher were relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Don Huntsinger and Mrs. Donna Haskins and family from Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Freeman and family from Ida.

Hunters returning from Hillman on Sunday of last week were Amos Johnson of Roland Street, George Brown of Sumpter Road and Ray Bohannon of Moms Drive. Two of them were bringing home a deer.

Mrs. Norman Miller of Second Street spent the holiday and several days last week with her son, Elmer, and wife at Garden City.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Seaman of Savage Road entertained members of their family, Dr. and Mrs. Gregory Gorga and family from Bloomfield, and David Seaman from Gaylord for Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Gillman Mullreed of Madelon Street enjoyed their holiday dinner with their grandson, Tom-Wojcicki, and wife at Lapeer.

Brian Palmer, a student at Michigan State University, arrived home on Wednesday to spend the holiday weekend with his parents, the Kenneth Palmers, of Clarence Street. Guests for dinner on Thursday at the Palmer home were Mrs. Palmer's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Wellefare from Alto, and William Trent of Belleville Road, Mrs. Trent being a patient at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Collins and family of Borgman Street ate their holiday dinner with Mrs. Collins' sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Van Valkenburg of Ypsilanti.

Mrs. Helen White and son, James, of Bedell Street left on Wednesday, Nov. 21, for Mattoon and Effingham, Ill. to spend the holiday and weekend with relatives. They returned on Monday, the 26th.

Janet Tucholski of Chandler, Ariz. arrived Wednesday evening to spend the holiday and weekend with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clayton of Bedell Street. Other members of their family who enjoyed the holiday meal with their parents were Mr. and Mrs. Richard vas Binder and sons from Petersburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Munce and sons from Brighton.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Boldt of Roland Street ate their holiday meal with their daughter Mrs. Douglas Wright and family in Monroe.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Quinley of Sumpter Road, their daughter, Mrs. Larry Traskos of Riggs Road, and Mrs. Edith Blommaert of Detroit were in Billings, Mont. to attend the wedding of the former's son, Kendall Quinley, and Vicki Abrahams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Matz, at The First Christian Church of Billings on Saturday, Nov. 10, and the reception at Sneeker Inn.

They, with the newlyweds, returned home on Monday following the wedding and left the next day for Mecosta for a week of hunting.

Dinner guests of Mrs. Clayton Saunders of Liberty Street Thanksgiving were her son, Lynn of Clinton Township, and a friend, Mrs. Harold Klaiss of River Rouge.

Guests Thanksgiving Day at the home of Mrs. Hugh Kellas of Margery Street were members of her family: her son, James Kellas of Taylor; her daughters and husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Satterlee, Bryant and Rachel, of Westland and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kidwell, Jason and Erin, of Ellen Drive.

Mrs. Esther Burlingame of Liberty Street was a holiday guest of her niece, Mrs. J. Stuart Fletcher of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Thurston of Potter Drive had for their guests Thanksgiving Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Stabnau and son, Mark, of West Huron River Drive, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Akans and daughter, Kelly, of Sheldon Road, Mrs. Natalie Coykendall, and Mrs. Muriel Smith.

Rainbow Girls attend Orange Ray meeting

Members of Belleville Assembly Rainbow for Girls who attended the Orange Ray meeting held Nov. 17 at Ypsilanti Assembly No. 20 were Roberta Welt, Grand Worthy Associate Advisor; Rhonda Claxton, Grand Representative to South Carolina and Virginia; Cheryl Viers, Worthy Advisor; Deborah Smendra, Worthy Associate Advisor; Mimi Welt, Faith; Sonya, Hall, Chaplain, and Irene Harper, Love.

Still others at the 3 p.m. initiation and 6 p.m. dinner were Lola White, Immortality; Barbara Cingell, Fidelity; Donna Hall, Service and Lori Williams, Prompter.

Adults accompanying the girls were Mother Advisor Rose Ann Welt, Denise Welt, Roberta Pond, Connie Gubaci, Kay Parker, Evelyn Claxton, Frances McAtee, Ruth McAtee and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Viers.

Five of the Belleville girls were chosen to help put on the initiatory work. Mother Welt did the opening and in the evening the girls presented several skits for entertainment.

Holiday workshops planned at library

During the month of December, workshops will be held at the Romulus Public Library, located at 11121 Wayne Road. Scheduled for the first three Saturdays in the month, the session will begin at 10:30 a.m. and all school-age children are invited to participate at no charge.

On Dec. 1 the library Christmas tree will be trimmed with popcorn and cranberry strings which the children will make.

On Dec. 8 the group will make Christmas ornaments and on the 15th they will participate in the Christmas party.

For further information and to register, please call 941-0775.

BPW makes plans for December meet

The Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) will hold their next meeting on Dec. 3 at Faith United Methodist Church in Denton beginning at 6:30 p.m. with dinner.

The Humanitarian Committee members in charge of the meeting are Irene Christie, Evelyn Pullen, Mable Hall, Evelyn Lauber, Audrey McKee and Faye Sotomayer, chairman.

The committee functions all year. Their project is going to Evergreen Hills Convalescent Home in Ypsilanti every month where they strive to make the residents there a little happier by providing bingo (with prizes donated by the club members), singing and most important — fellowship. The club members have been very supportive to this project and at the November meeting exchanged names of Evergreen Hills residents.

Club members will bring a gift to the December meeting to be given at the Christmas party planned for them on Dec. 14. The committee has planned an exciting evening. The Ambassadors from Belleville High School will entertain with selections of songs of the season and lead the singing of carols.

We invite any woman of the area who is employed to join us. For dinner reservations call Gwen Ashe at 699-5030. Together we aspire, together we achieve.

Frozen Wheat Germ Souffle

It's no surprise to find wheat germ in beautiful desserts. After all, wheat germ is known as the beautiful food. The nutrient content of protein, vitamins and minerals in wheat germ helps to provide the health and vitality that makes you look and feel your best. The convenience of using wheat germ is beautiful, too. It comes in two delicious flavors — regular and sugar & honey. Both varieties are lightly toasted to enhance their wonderful grainy texture. They are carefully packed in vacuum sealed jars to preserve the aromatic fresh flavor. After opening a jar of wheat germ, you can protect its freshness by storing in the refrigerator.

This show stopping dessert made with wheat germ is designed for a memorable occasion. Fortunately the glamorous creation, which delights both eye and palate, is a make ahead. Kretscher Kitchens developed the recipe so it can be made with either regular wheat germ or sugar & honey wheat germ.

A handsome choice for holiday celebrations, dinner parties and other festive gatherings, the frozen souffle is easy to put together. The tingly coldness is especially refreshing at the end of a leisurely meal. The unusual flavoring and textural contrasts are noteworthy in making such an outstanding dessert. As expected, the souffle gets its volume and fluffiness from beaten egg whites and whipped cream. An intriguing almond flavor is provided by amaretto, the popular after dinner spirit. Wheat germ and chopped maraschino cherries folded into the creamy mixture give interesting texture and flavor accents. The recipe goes together surprisingly fast. Turn into its presentation dish and freeze at least six hours. Decorate before serving and dish out at the table with a long handled fork and spoon.

Frozen Wheat Germ Amaretto Souffle

½ cup sugar
¼ cup water
4 eggs, separated
½ cup amaretto liqueur
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup whipping cream
¾ cup vacuum packed wheat germ, regular or sugar & honey
2 tablespoons finely chopped maraschino cherries, optional

Combine sugar and water in small saucepan. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer uncovered 3 minutes. Beat egg yolks until light and lemon colored. Gradually beat in hot syrup. Stir in amaretto and vanilla. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Beat cream until stiff. Fold egg whites and whipped cream into egg yolk mixture. Fold in wheat germ and cherries. Turn into 3 or 4 cup souffle dish with 2-inch collar. Freeze 6 hours or overnight. Decorate as desired with piped on whipped cream, light sprinkling of wheat germ and maraschino cherries. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Helpful advice

For hunters and others who might end up lost

Let's suppose for a minute that it's a relatively warm, sunny day in December. You're going hunting. You dress lightly because it's warm and you're expecting some vigorous exercise. You don't carry any emergency equipment because you're just going a few miles down the road to a game area. It's only about a mile square, so you figure that, even if you get turned around, you're never more than a 15-minute stroll from some road.

No one is home when you leave, so you don't tell anyone where you're going and when you expect to be back, and you don't think to leave a note.

You're out in the middle of the game area, looking for a downed bird, when the clouds roll in, the temperature drops and it begins to snow. You start feeling chilly immediately and decide to hurry back to the car. That's when you step in a hole and twist your ankle. About this time you discover you're uncertain of your directions.

You are in trouble. The road is no longer an easy 15-minute jaunt away. You are not dressed for the weather, you're getting wet, you have no way to signal for help except your firearm, and no one knows where you are or will know to send someone out looking for you. You could be dead in a few hours. What do you do?

The best advice, from Glenn Dudderar, Extension wildlife specialist, is to avoid getting yourself into such a situation. Before you go hunting, play the game of "what if?" and go prepared to cope with whatever happens. And be sure that someone who loves you knows where you've gone and when you expect to be back. That person will not hesitate to send someone out to find you if he-she thinks you might be in trouble.

Each year hunters die because they get lost and either don't know what to do or don't have the emergency equipment they need.

Dudderar advises wearing layered clothing so you can take off or add layers as the weather changes. Carry matches, some high-energy food, a whistle, some string, a small flashlight and a knife.

The food will help you get warm if you become chilled, and having something to eat will help you feel better if you get lost.

Lighting a fire serves a psychological purpose, too. There's nothing like a cozy fire to keep your hopes up. It'll also help keep you warm and dry. And if you throw a few pieces of wet wood on a good fire, the resulting column of smoke should bring you lots of company.

The whistle is for signaling for help. It won't run out of fuel or ammunition, it doesn't get hoarse, it'll operate under all sorts of weather conditions and it can't easily be mistaken for some naturally occurring sound or someone hunting.

The string and knife are helpful in first aid, emergency repairs and, if necessary, shelter building.

To these basics you can add a compass, if you know how to use it. If you don't it may just get you into more trouble.

One final rule for hunters and others who go into the field: if you realize you're lost, stay calm and stay put. Sit down, take a few deep breaths to relax and get busy making a fire. You improve the chances that someone will find you if you stay put. And you're much less likely to get hurt.

Couple planning February nuptials

MISS SHEPARD

Plans for a winter wedding are being made by Theresa Louise Shepard of Romulus and Frank Dore of Wayne. St. Aloysius Catholic Church in Romulus has been reserved for their Feb. 2 altar date.

Announcement of the young couple's plans comes from Aldred and Beatrice Shepard of 10133 Romaine, Romulus, parents of the bride-elect.

A 1976 graduate of Romulus High School, Miss Shepard attended Henry Ford Community College for two years and is now working at Apple Tree Lane Convalescent Center in Romulus.

Her fiance, who resides at 33953 Glover, Wayne, is the son of Mrs. Rosalle M. Dore of 105 Spring St., Kawkawlin. He graduated from Bay City Handy High School in 1961 and is now employed by U.S. Air at Detroit Metro Airport.

Lou Ungers mark 70th anniversary

Not only was November 24 the 91st birthday of Louis Unger of Romulus but he and his wife, Ruth, also marked their 70th year of wedded bliss. Married in 1909 at St. Paul's Church on Goddard Road in Taylor, Mrs. Unger was Ruth Rutkoske on her wedding day.

To their union was born a daughter, Vira, now Mrs. Clayton Painter of Curtis in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, and a son Russell, who is deceased. There are also four grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren on their family tree.

On Sunday, Nov. 25, Mrs. Painter played hostess at an open house in honor of her parents who have lived in Romulus all their lives. The party, held at their home at 16821 Middlebelt Road, was attended by friends from their church as well as relatives in the area. Two granddaughters, Sherryl Leedy of Dearborn and Marilyn Weigel of Allen Park, assisted with the serving of finger foods, cake and coffee. A special decorated sheet cake served as focal point at the dining room table.

Mr. Unger retired in 1954 from his job at the Detroit Creamery and, until recently, he and his wife worked their farm and enjoyed traveling to Florida each year. Still in good health, Mrs. Unger, who was 90 in July, does all her own housework, cooking and baking. The Ungers are members of St. Paul's Church, where they were married.

Health food author set

Nutritional consultant and author of "Triumph of Disease—By Fasting and Natural Diet," Dr. Jack Goldstein, will appear at Washtenaw Community College Nov. 29 at 12 noon. He will speak about "The Natural Approach to Health and Long Life." The lecture is open to the public at no charge.

Dr. Goldstein will discuss the dangers of chemical food additives and fad diets as well as the benefits and reasons why he believes fasting and vegetarian diets are appropriate. A question and answer period will follow his talk which will be given in Lecture Hall I of the College's Liberal Arts and Sciences Building at 4800 East Huron River Drive.

KEN KAESTNER

Coach of the Year

Kaestner pulls another 'big upset'

After Fordson had convincingly whipped Livonia Churchill in the opening game of the season, Churchill's Ken Kaestner told a colleague "that if we score a touchdown this season we'll be lucky."

At the time, he said, he wasn't kidding.

But the veteran Churchill grid strategist started to shift people around, revamp the offense and put players in places that sorely needed mending.

The moves paid off. Churchill went on to win their next seven games, retain the Western Six Conference championship and rise out of the ashes to a 7-2 season.

Kaestner's incredible comeback also deserves special recognition in that it shows anything is possible when you and your staff get down to business.

"You know when we lost that opener I was really down. No coach likes to be beaten. And when you are, even by an exceptional team like Fordson, you look for some answers.

Kaestner, 43, has over a couple of decades coaching experience. He's seen it all.

"But I am always amazed by this sport," he said. "Football is one heck of a sport, and I feel that the people who are in it will agree that there's nothing more satisfying than watching youngsters learn and grow up in this kind of competition."

Kaestner went on to say, "that I have had teams that had unbeaten seasons, but this one was as gratifying if not more pleasant because we didn't expect to be where we were at the end of the season."

"We lost to two teams — Fordson, ranked No. 1 in the state most of the year and Livonia Stevenson, who went on to the semi-finals before they lost."

Wheelchair basketball

Sparks stretch win streak to 9 to keep No. 1 rating

The Westland Sparks Wheelchair Basketball team will host the nationally fourth ranked Casa Colina, California Condors as part of a basketball doubleheader in a non-conference season game on both Saturday, December 1, and Sunday, December 2.

The Sparks currently sport a 9-0 record and arey averaging 94 points per game.

The doubleheaders should be a stiff test for the Number One ranked Sparks as Casa Colina battled its way to the final four in last year's National Wheelchair Basketball Association tournament, and are a stronger team this year.

In other league action, the Westland Sparks will host the Toledo Silverstreaks on Saturday, November 24 and Sunday, November 25.

All home games are played at Westland's Melvin G. Bailey Recreation Center, located at 36651 Ford Road (between Wayne and Newburgh Roads).

The Toledo Silverstreak contests will have an 8 p.m. 'tip-off' on Saturday and 1 p.m. on Sunday, while the December 1 and 2 doubleheaders will start on 7 p.m. on Saturday and 1 p.m. on Sunday.

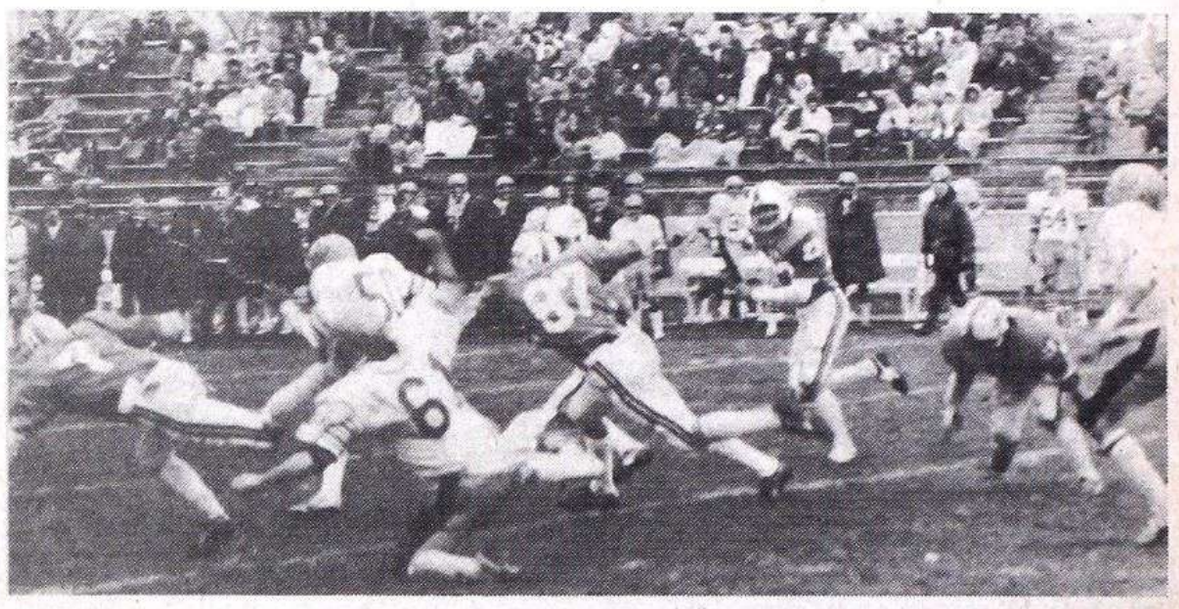
In their last trip to the court, the Sparks rattled the Toronto Thunderbolts twice, chalking up a 50-40 victory, then going to to an easy 68-31 win to sweep the doubleheader.

Joe Sutika pumped in 10 points while Denver Branum, Gary Odorowski and Ted Chapman each chipped in with eight points in the 50-40 triumph.

Maurice Phillips tossed in 16 points for the winners to lead all scorers in the second encounter. Leon Sturez and Odowowski each had 12 in the rout.

The Sparks return home to take on the Toledo Silver Streak on Saturday and Sunday in games scheduled for 8 p.m. and 1 p.m., respectively.



Freshman power

Lunging from behind for the Ferris College ballcarrier is ex-New Boston High grid star Randy Pichan (87) who has broken into Grand Valley's varsity line-up as a freshman. Pichan, an 18-year-old who played football, basketball and baseball at Huron, is on Coach Jim Harkema's specialty teams. Coach Harkema will be New Boston Huron's as well as Westland John Glenn's grid banquet speaker. The Glenn banquet will be held November 27 in the high school cafeteria.

What about Johnny Long?

The shooting begins at 6 p.m. and the date again is Nov. 30 at Romulus High. The first game will pit the Inkster faculty against their Romulus counterparts, while the alumni take to the court at 8 p.m.

Belleville Tiger boosters to meet

Here's a final note for Belleville Tiger Boosters: Their November meeting will be held on the 28th in conjunction with the Winter Sports Kickoff. Sorry, didn't get the time for that meeting. Slipped my mind to ask.

Westlanders wind up 4th in soccer

Makeing their inaugural appearance in the Great Lakes Men's Open Age Division II Soccer League, the Westland kickers managed to win five of their 10 starts, dropping four and tying one match. That ratio allowed them to finish fourth in the six team league.

In the season finale, Mario Gracin booted in a goal in the waning minutes of the game to break a 3-all deadlock and lift the Westlanders to a 4-3 victory over Garden City.

Amateur bowlers eye prize $$$

Amateur bowlers throughout the Detroit area are in the running for $50,000 in prizes as Velvet Bowling begins this month at more than 100 metropolitan area bowling centers.

Each week of the 1979-80 bowling season, the top-scoring male and female bowler at every participating bowling center will be named that center's "Stars of the Week."

At the season's end, an estimated 4,000 "Stars of the Week" will compete in an area-wide Velvet Bowling tournament for prizes that include two new 1980 luxury automobiles and cash awards up to $3,000. Velvet Bowling is sponsored by Black Velvet Canadian Whisky and the Bowling Proprietors Association (BPA) of Greater Detroit.

In addition, the man and woman bowling the best scores in the Detroit area each week will be pictured in Velvet Bowling newspaper advertisements. The two winners also receive a Velvet Bowling jacket, ball and bag.

The contest is open to any person over 21 who bowls in a league at the Detroit area's 113 BPA-member lanes.

Bowlers' league handicaps will be used to determine the "Stars of the Week." Handicaps are set at 80 per cent of the difference between a bowler's average and a score of 200. Bowlers with averages of 200 or more will bowl scratch.

The contest ends in May with the Black Velvet-BPA Grand Star Invitational Tournament.

The tournament begins with semi-final roll-offs open to all bowling centers' "Stars of the Week." About 4,000 bowlers are expected to enter the roll-offs, which will be held at 10 Detroit area bowling centers. There will be five men's semi-finals events and five women's semi-finals.

One winner from each of the 10 roll-offs will go on to the finals. In addition to the two cars available to the top male and female bowler, the runners-up will receive prizes of $3,000, $2,000, $2,500, and $1,000. Bowlers placing in the semi-finals will receive prizes ranging from $150 to $20.

All-Area harriers coming up

With football out of the way, The Associated Newspapers' Sports Department can concentrate on picking All-Area cross country, girls' swimming and basketball teams.

In the next edition the ANP's top prep runners will be honored along with a Coach of the Year.

If area coaches can agree on the top cagers and swimmers before our next deadline we'll also pay tribute to the top girl athletes in those sports.

Jim McPartlin, head swim coach at Wayne Memorial, has the responsibility of gathering the stats for the All-Area team in that sport.

McPartlin can be reached at the high school pool by telephoning 595-2244 between 8:30 a.m. and 9:30 a.m. He also can be reached at that number between 3 and 5 p.m.

Westland track club is 2nd best

Paced by Beverly Keith, the Westland Track Club finished second at the Michigan AAU Junior Olympic Cross Country Championships held last week at Cass Benton Park.

The team, made up of 10-11 year old girls, piled up 63 points in the invitational that was sponsored by the Motor City Athletic Club.

Miss Keith ran a 10:53 for a fifth place while teammates Michelle Sanchez and Kelly Pate crossed the finish line 11th and 14th respectively. Julie Hysko and Robin Zdanowski were 16th and 17th for the Westlanders.

Monroe shatters Wayne dreams for a title

Zebras finish second; have best medley relay team in league

Wayne Memorial's dreams of sharing the Great Lakes 8 Conference girls' swimming title were shattered last week as unbeaten defending champ Monroe retained the crown it had won a year ago.

Wayne finished second in the eight team field at Wyandotte High.

"I felt we swam well in the finals," Wayne Coach Jim McPartlin said after the meet. "But we didn't have enough to stop Monroe this year."

Monroe grabbed eight out of a possible 11 first places and finished with 321 points, while the second-place Wayne garnered 286 team points. Riverview, competing for its last time in the league — the Pirates will swim in the Huron Conference next year — wound up third (166½), followed by Wyandotte, Fordson, Taylor Truman, Taylor Center and Lincoln Park.

Wayne received an outstanding performance from its medley relay team which took its team's only gold. McPartlin's line-up that event included Catherine Batterson, Mary Joe Mason, Lori Miles and Lisa Mondock who turned in a record-setting 2:01.5.

Miss Mondock also set a school record when she touched in at 27.0 for the 50-yard freestyle. That performance provided her with a third place medal.

Lacy Lopez' 59.9 for the 100-yard freestyle was the meet's fourth best time. It also ecilpsed the Wayne record for the event. And Gretchen Batterson's 5:57.4, also a school record, earned a fourth place in the 500-yard freestyle.

Wayne finished second to record-setting Monroe in the 400-yard freestyle relay, and the names of Lopez, Karen Vankeuren, Gretchen Batterson and Sandy Burns will be placed on the school's record-board for shattering the Zebras' old mark. The new mark is 4:03.2.

Picture of champions

Westland John Glenn swimmers capped a perfect 5-0 league season by winning a share of the Northwest Suburban Conference championship. Coach Jim Lawrence's Rockets split the title with defending champ, Redford Union, which won the league meet phase of the season. Members of Lawrence's first championship—the school's second—team are: Shelly Wilber (seated, from left first row), Shelly Cervin, Karen Scarborough, Anita VanTil, Nancy Ostlund, Janine Luckett, Sandy Martinez, Paula Taylor, Teri Kula, Sharon Stailey, Kathy McGinty; second row are Michele Cook, Kim Pici, Jenny Barnyak, Monica Kubiak, nancy Torbitt, Linda Gibson, Sandy Hawkins, Debbie Deuss, Kelly Wintersteen, Ann Berry, Brenda Collins; third row are Charmaine Chaido Denise Wickline, Karin Stover, Marcia Kubiak, Mary Sens, Ann Sukany, Kelly Lang, Janet Borgerding, Mary Wilber, Diane Bonarek, Cathy White, Dana Mirandi, Coach Jim Lawrence, and Coach Debbie Sanders.

Defending champ Redford Union handed over half of the Northwest Suburban Conference swimming title to John Glenn last week after winning the league meet. Coach Jim Lawrence girl's swim team managed to finish second at the league championship and that's all they needed to do to clinch half of the title.

"R.U. and our team tied for the championship because we had beaten them to dual meet competition. Both the dual meet and the final league meet results are taken into account," explained Lawrence who went on to say that he was pleased with his team's performance.

In fact, Lawrence said winning the title "was great. Really great. A lot of hard work paid off."

The Westlanders took a perfect 5-0 dual meet league record into the championships and knew they had a battle on their hands, according to Lawrence.

"R.U. and North Farmington have the frontrunners," he said, "but we have a completely balanced team. That's why we managed to get a share of the title. Our depth paid off."

The Westlanders also have the best diver in the league in Janet Borgerding who set a league record of 339.45 points en route to a gold medal.

Karin Stover struck gold for Glenn as she turned in a 1:07.83 in winning the 100-yard butterfly. That performance was a school a school record.

The Westlanders established two other school marks. The medley relay team of Kelly Lang, Sandy Hawkins, Stover and Sandy Martinez touched in at 2:04.9 to break the old mark of 2:06.6. The effort gave the foursome a silver medal in the league.

Lawrence's crew of Cathy White, Mary Wilber, Karen Scarborough and Nancy Ostlund finished third in the 400-yard freestyle relay, but the time (4:11.8) erased the school mark of 4:14.8.

Undefeated on ice

Futurama is 'perfect'

Futurama Engineering has its eyes on, and apparently no one can take the league leader's eyes off, the Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey League Championship.

Vanderburgh's heroics in the nets earned for him and Futurama a 2-0 shutout. That was his second shutout in a row and his third of the young campaign. The "hot" goalie has allowed a mere four goals in his six confrontations.

First period goals by Dave Franklin and Mike Forynski were all Futurama needed to stash this decision away.

Meanwhile, Jack's Sports Center claimed its second straight victory as it edged Tastee Freez 5-4. Ron Wojewski's third goal of the evening with 1:37 left to play gave the Jack's the win. Wojewski apparently likes to frustrate his rivals in the late minutes. Two weeks ago he notched a game-winning goal with one second left.

Also scoring for Jack's were Mike Adamson and Dennis Fassett.

Tastee Freez got on the board thanks to Rod Dittmar, Marv Borycki, Mo Paquette and Terry Carley.

Brock Homes received a late scare from Jake's before securing a 6-4 victory over its rivals. Jake's, trailing 5-2 with three minutes remaining in the game, pulled its goaltender for an extra attacker, and the strategy worked. Mike Villemure and Corky Hays drilled in goals to close the gap 5-4 with 30 seconds left on the clock.

Layne Cardinal's two goals paced the winner's attack while single tallies went to Dave Zajac, Tom Dilaura and Ken Carter. Ray Schmanske and Gary Wynn also scored for Jake's.

Johnson Carbonic, the league's highest scoring club, went on another one of its rampages and ripped the Jock Shop 7-3. Three third period goals broke up the close encounter and gave the winners their third victory in six starts.

Ron Johnson and Bill Murray collected two goals each for the winners with Guy Moise, Jerry Robertson and John Davis checking in with one each.

Brock's Homes will have a shot at Futurama's six-game winning streak after the Thanksgiving Holidays when the two teams will meet at 9 p.m., Sunday at the Wayne Rink. In the nightcap at 10:30 p.m., Extra Point will entertain Jake's Lounge.

In the meantime, over in Westland the Jock Shop will try to pull itself up at the expense of Jack's Sports Center in an 8:30 p.m. scheduled match-up, while at 10 p.m., Tastee Freez and Johnson's have a date.

Family dines out to celebrate birthday

Enjoying dinner together at Symack's in Lincoln Park on Sunday evening, Nov. 10 were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Riggs and Miss Florence Renton of Savage Road, Mr. and Mrs. David Riggs and family of South St., Mrs. Henry Herkimer of Denton Road and Miss Lucile Webster of Dearborn, in celebration of Mrs. Lloyd Riggs' birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Suliman of Edgedale Drive returned home on Friday of last week after having spent several days with the latter's mother, Mrs. Josephine Mroczkowski at Boynton Beach, Fla.

Guests this past week at the home of Mrs. Harold (June) Roberts of Main Street were Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Kaiser from Volcano, Calif. They also have spent some time with Mrs. Kaiser's brother, Orlo Roberts and his wife, Marie.

After having been a patient of the University of Michigan Medical Center in Ann Arbor, Sharlene Tator was able to return to her High Street home Thursday.

Guests this past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Potts of Wabash Street were their granddaughter, Kelley Potts, from St. Charles, Ill., and Miss Helen Staron of Detroit, sister of Mrs. Potts.

Mrs. Geraldine Dellman of Utica was an overnight guest last Thursday of relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mericle of Denton Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Roberts of Liberty Street attended the wedding of friends, Michelle Suzanne Candiotti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Candiotti of Ypsilanti and Mr. Larry Daniel Sanford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee A. Sanford of Ann Arbor, at Fairlane Manor in Dearborn Saturday evening, Nov. 10. They also were present at the reception following the ceremony at Fairlane.

After having been a patient at Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti for the past 10 days due to a triple fracture of her leg, Catherine Krebs was able to return to her home on Angola Street on Monday, Nov. 12. Her daughter, Janet Stabnau, is helping to care for her.

Mrs. Henry Potter of Liberty Street and Miss Aldine Potter of High Street were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Le Moyne of Livonia on Sunday, Nov. 11. The occasion was in celebration of the former's grandson, Robert LeMoyne's sixth birthday.

On the Friday previous both Robert and his 3-year-old brother, Craig, were overnight guests of their maternal grandmother.

Mrs. Dorothy Kellas of Margery Street attended a dinner meeting of the Strand-Weeks Club on Sunday, Nov. 11, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hietala in Detroit. During the business meeting election of officers took place and Mrs. Kellas was re-elected secretary.

Mrs. Lyle Cubberly of Ypsilanti spent several days this past week with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Leon J. Boldt of Roland Street.

Mrs. Joseph Spring of Liberty Street attended an open house on Sunday, Nov. 11, in celebration of the 80th birthday of a family friend, Harold Curtis of Plymouth, at the home of his daughter and husband in Livonia.

Miss Lucile Webster of Dearborn and Miss Florence Renton of Savage Road were last Saturday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Deering of West Columbia Avenue.

In celebration of the November family birthdays Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Orr of Crowley Street held a dinner on Sunday, Nov. 11. Present for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Orr and family from Flint, Lynn from Romulus and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Orr from Lincoln Park.

Lynn Saunders and son, Jeff, of Clinton Township, were overnight guests last weekend of Lynn's mother, Mrs. Clayton Saunders of Liberty Street.

Besides having been honored at an open house at the First United Methodist Church on Sunday, Nov. 4, in celebration of his 90th birthday, Darryl H Raymond Sr., along with his wife, Josephine and their son Darryl Jr., was a guest at the Masonic dinner, entitled "Darryl Raymond Night," Nov. 8 prepared and served by the ladies of the Eastern Star.

Worshipful Master George Powell, Master of Ceremonies, introduced Joseph F. Tabor of Inkster. District Deputy Instructor, who gave the Invocation. Following a delicious roast beef dinner, Right Worshipful Deputy Grand Master Robert N. Osbourne of Dearborn was guest speaker and gave a resume of Darryl's many Masonic activities over the past 65 years.

Having joined the order in Onoway Lodge No. 425 in 1914 he transferred to Myrtle Lodge No. 89 in 1916, and has been a member of the Board of Trustees, Worshipful Master and treasurer for the past 34 years.

In token of their esteem he was presented with a plaque which reads "To Darryl H. Raymond for over 50 years of service to Myrtle Lodge No. 89, F. & A.M.," and a tape recorder with extra tapes.

Clarence Jones, Worthy Grand Patron of the Grand Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star in Michigan, also presented him with a small lapel pin from the Grand Matron.

The Western Wayne County Retired Teachers' Book Club met at the Centurian Restaurant at Lakewood Shopping Center, on Saturday, Nov. 10, with 20 present. Following dinner Miss Elsie Fritag of Dearborn spoke and showed colored slides of her trip to Australia and New Zealand. Due to winter weather conditions, the club will not meet again until April.

Both of these pies contain just the right "traditional" seasonal ingredients to make them perfect for entertaining. They are easy to prepare because they are made with the help of Dream Whip whipped topping mix and Jell-O instant pudding and pie filling. The combination of the two creates the light, creamy texture of the pie filling, a delicate complement to the other flavors.

Good things to eat are part of the holiday mood, and both of these pies will enhance the festivities.

Mincemeat Pumpkin Pie

1 cup prepared mincemeat
1 baked 9-inch pie shell, cooled
1-¼ cups cold milk
1 envelope whipped topping mix
1 package (4-serving size) vanilla flavor instant pudding and pie filling
1 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
1 cup canned pumpkin

Spread mincemeat evenly over bottom of pie shell. Combine milk, whipped topping mix, pie filling mix and spice in deep, narrow-bottom bowl. Beat slowly until well blended. Gradually increase beating speed and beat until mixture will form soft peaks, about 3 to 5 minutes. Blend in pumpkin. Spoon into pie shell over mincemeat. Chill about 3 hours. Garnish with prepared whipped topping, if desired.

Praline Delight Pie

one-third cup butter or margarine
one-third cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup chopped pecans, walnuts or almonds
1 lightly baked 9-inch pie shell
1 package (6-serving size) vanilla flavor instant pudding and pie filling
2-½ cups cold milk
1 envelope whipped topping mix

Combine butter, brown sugar and nuts in saucepan; heat until butter and sugar are melted. Spread in bottom of pie shell. Bake at 450 degrees for 5 minutes, or until bubbly; cool. Prepare pie filling mix with 2-½ cups milk as directed on package for pie. Measure 1 cup filling; set aside. Pour remaining filling into pie shell. Prepare whipped topping mix as directed on package; blend one and one-third cups into the measured pie filling. Spoon into pie shell; chill about 3 hours. Garnish with remaining whipped topping and pecan halves, if desired.

Bies-Ellis vows planned for May

A May altar date is being planned by Diane Bies and Anthony Ray Ellis, both of Belleville. Their engagement is announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Bies of 46545 Willis Rd., Belleville.

Both Miss Bies and her fiance are 1972 graduates of Belleville High School. She went on to study at Western Michigan University and Eastern Michigan University and is currently with United Airlines as a customer service agent.

The prospective bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Ellis of 1839 Crittendon Ave., Ypsilanti, spent three years at Eastern Michigan University. A resident of 138 Clarence St., Belleville, he is employed as general manager of Sattelite Airport Parking at Detroit Metro Airport.

St. Anthony's Catholic Church is being reserved for the young couple's wedding.

Former residents, Lambert Midas, mark 54th year

Former Residents of the Belleville area, Mr. and Mrs. Lambert Mida of Westland, were the surprised guests of honor Nov. 4 when, during a visit to Indiana, they were feted on their 54th wedding anniversary.

It was the wedding of their grandson, Gary Rowland, and Nona Wikel that took them, as well as their four daughters and their husbands, out of town. The ceremony was held Nov. 3 at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Highland, Ind. after which a reception took place at the VFW Hall in nearby Griffith.

Attending along with their parents were the bridegroom's mother and dad, Betty and Ronald Rowland of Morris, Ill.; Mildred and Bob Baker of Belleville; Georgianna and Harold Frye of Westland and Evelyn and Scotty Lyall of Lake Elmo, Minn. Together with their parents the five couples represent a total of 176 years of marriage — 26 for the Rowlands, 35 for the Bakers, 30 for the Fryes and 31 for the Lyalls.

The morning after the wedding the group attended services together at the Lutheran Church where a special prayer was offered for the Mida's anniversary. From there they returned to their quarters at the Holiday Inn in Hammond where they "decided" to have dinner (the Midas unaware that plans had already been made for a special table and pillared wedding cake.)

Capping the festivities was a message of congratulations to the honored pair in lights on the motel marquee.

Both natives of the Belleville area, Lambert Mida of Ecorse Road and Elizabeth Sears of Savage Road, were joined in holy wedlock on Nov. 7, 1925 and lived from that year until the spring of 1956 in this community. They then moved to the Wayne-Westland area and now make their home at 35934 Palmer Rd., Westland. Besides their four daughters, their family tree includes nine grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Dave Greca, Janna Harris married at Baptist church

Two graduates of Belleville High School, Janna Harris and David Greca, were joined in marriage Oct. 20 at Calvary Baptist Church in Canton. Dr. Douglas Routledge presided at the double ring rite before some 260 assembled relatives and friends.

Jim and Jenette Harris of 17509 Sumpter Rd., Belleville, and Don and Emma Greca of 46912 Bemis Rd., Belleville, are parents of the young couple who exchanged vows at three in the afternoon.

Music for the occasion was by Pastor Jon Case, Paul Beckler, Sherry Scott and Cindy Carmer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white sata peau over bridal taffeta. The fitted bodice was embellished with appliques of silk Venise lace as were the straight sleeves which featured off-the-shoulder pleating. Her petaled overskirt, also frosted with lace, fell into a chapel sweep.

A Juliet cap in matching lace secured her 3-tiered veil of silk illusion which was banded in lace and a bouquet of silk roses and lilies of the valley in cascade fashion completed her ensemble.

A silesta frock in spiced apple color was worn by the maid of honor, Clarice Ford of Taylor. The blouson bodice was designed with split sleeves and a waistline encircled with a cummerbund. The nosegay she carried was comprised of cranberry-colored carnations, pink begonias and bell flowers.

Bridal attendants in matching outfits included three cousins of the bride: Tammy Harris of Plymouth, Renee Nowinski of Belleville and Terry Antieau of Redford. Junior bridesmaids were Jaimie Case and her sister, Jennifer, both from Plymouth.

The bridegroom asked his best friend Gary McKenzie of Belleville to serve as best man. Groomsmen were Doug Akers, Ray Lemanski and Gregg Daroci, all of Belleville, and two brothers of the bride, Nathan and Neil Harris, who were junior attendants. Ushers were Randy Harris, another brother, and Don Antieau, a cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Harris chose for her daughter's wedding a formal gown of delphinium rose silesta with which she wore a wrist corsage of white roses and cranberry-tipped carnations. A similar corsage in pink and white accented the pink polyester gown which Mrs. Greca had designed and made for the occasion.

The bride attended Henry Ford Community College for one year after graduating from Belleville High and her husband atended the Earl Keim Training Center.

MR. AND MRS. ALLEN J. TAYLOR

St. Anthony's Catholic Church was the setting Oct. 20 for the double ring ceremony uniting Lauren K. Wheelock and Allen J. Taylor in holy matrimony. For the four thirty rite the altar was appointed with spider mums and burgundy, rose and white carnations.

The Rev. John Kluka read the afternoon ceremony before 100 close friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wheelock of 10444 Borgman Rd., Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Taylor of 44957 Judd Rd., Belleville, are parents of the young couple who are now living in Ypsilanti.

Organist was David Carnahan and guitar-soloists were Denise and Diane Fischer, all of Belleville.

Entering the church with her father, Lauren appeared in a toe-touching gown fashioned with a high lace collar above an illusion insert on the little fitted bodice. Lace also accented the long bishop sleeves and edged her mantilla veil of silk illusion.

Preceding the bride and her father down the aisle were five attendants in gowns of dusty rose qiana: Sue Mayer of Belleville, the maid of honor; Lynn Wheelock Nowak of Ann Arbor and Lee Ann Wheelock of Belleville, sisters of the bride; Joan Vought Poore of Ann Arbor, and Laura Kohsman of Detroit, niece of the bridegroom.

They wore halos of silk and dried roses, baby's breath and dried fern in their hair and carried bouquets of silk and dried roses and baby's breath.

Joseph Haynes of Belleville carried out the duties of best man. Ushers were Dennis Taylor of Brighton, brother of the bridegroom; Tom Bowles of Belleville; Doug Ziemnick of Westland, and Roy Allen of Belleville.

A 1977 graduate of Belleville High School, the new Mrs. Taylor is employed at York Woods Center, Children's Division of Ypsilanti Regional Psychiatric Hospital. Her husband, a 1974 alumnus of Belleville High, graduated from Michigan Technological Institute in 1978 with associate degrees in electro-mechanical engineering technology and electrical engineering technology. He is now with Otto Durr, Inc. of Plymouth.

Silver wedding celebration held in Litchfield, O.

Former Belleville residents, Glenn and Juanita Cullin of Litchfield, Ohio, were pleasantly surprised on Saturday evening, Nov. 10, when members of their family and friends gathered at their home to help them celebrate their silver wedding anniversary.

The gala affair and bountiful buffet luncheon, featuring a special anniversary cake, were planned and hosted by their four children, Kerry, Kirk Kelly and Kittie, all living at home.

Relatives attending from Belleville and vicinity were their mothers, Mrs. Arthur (Helen) Cullin of Sumpter Road and Mrs. May Chapman of Belleville Road; Glenn's brothers and their wives, Gerald and Roberta Cullin and son, Eric, of East Huron River Drive and Don and Carol Cullin of Litchfield. Also Juanita's sister, Mrs. Don (Lee) Walls and son, Don, of Savage Road and Mrs. Wall's daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Plourde from Harpers Ferry, W. Va.

Still others were aunts, Cora Bradshaw of Bedell Street, Mildred Artley of West Columbia Avenue and Dorothy Mason of Spencer Street.

Cousins attending included Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith of Quirk Road, Mr. and Mrs. John Rockwell of Potter Drive, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bradshaw and Mr. and Mrs. James Webber of Ypsilanti, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cullin of East Columbia Avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Cullin of Lenmore Road, Charles Mason of Robson Road, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Smith of Milan and Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Smith from Harrison.

Among the many friends who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Potts of Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Garlick of Clarence Street, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bawden of Bemis Road, Mr. and Mrs. James Graham of Potter Drive and Mr. and Mrs. Veets Kaminskis of West Huron River Drive.

Glenn Cullin and Juanita Chapman were married Nov. 6, 1954 at the First United Methodist Church of Belleville and made their home here until moving to Litchfield 15 years ago.

The happy couple received many lovely and useful gifts as mementoes of the occasion.

MUSICAL NOTES

by Doug Brown

Destined to follow his father's trade, that of a butcher, Antonin Dvorak was born in Nelahozeves, Bohemia, in 1941. He was taught to play the violin by the village schoolmaster and he would play taverns where peasants gathered to sing and dance. Upon reaching 21, he joined the orchestra of the National Theatre as a viola player and received the directorship of the National Conservatory in New York in 1892. While in America, he became keenly interested in black folk music which he later used in his great symphony "From The New World." Abounding in simplicity, his compositions portray him in his true character, a simple-hearted man. Dvorak died in Prague, Bohemia, in 1904.

RECURRENT HEADACHES CAN MAKE LIFE MISERABLE

Almost every one of us suffers from a headache sooner or later. Many suffer regularly from this depressing symptom. The neck and upper portion of the spine can be considered one of the prime suspects in many cases of recurrent headaches. The Doctor of Chiropractic's experience has taught him that headaches that persist over long periods of time, occuring and disappearing only to occur again when least expected, are related to traceable causes. One such cause is abnormal positioning or an abnormal mobility of one or several vertebrae (spinal segments) in the upper neck.

Sometimes unknown to the patient an accident, fall, or improper posture, even an incorrect position while sleeping will force the vertebrae of the upper neck into an abnormal position beyond its normal range of movement. Usually no symptoms appear immediately, but undue stress on muscles, ligaments and nerves will most often result in pain and tenderness at the base of the skull. This initial pain sometimes spreads from teh base of the skull through the nerves of the scalp to the temples and behind the eyes, causing the common, but most unpleasant symptoms of the recurrent headache.

Headache pain is sometimes accmpanied by muscle spasms through the neck and shoulders, especially in the back of the neck. Sometimes the pain is so persistent and intense it causes nausea, and is improperly diagnosed as a tension headache or the feared migraine headache. Because many people believe all headaches are caused from nervous tension and stress, and other psychological conflict, years of suffering is endured when a visit to the Doctor of Chiropractic would alleviate the symptoms.

Experience of the Doctor of Chiropractic has shown that many if not most headaches are caused by abnormal alignment and mobility of one or more of the vertebrae of the neck and upper back. Treatment has often proven effective in giving the patient relief from the pain and discomfort of the recurrent headache.

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

If there's one malady we gals all seem to suffer from (at one time or another) it's the "I'll just dash in and out and no one will see me" syndrome.

Ho-ho!

Want to see every one of your best-dressed acquaintances or meet up with a long-lost boyfiend? Just TRY dashing in someplace without being seen.

I'm referring, of course, to those times when you've just not taken the time to "gussy up" for a sprint into the supermarket or a beeline into the drugstore. Looking your worst somehow always brings to surface those people you least want to get a peak at you (in your temporary condition.)

But we never learn, do we? Just recently — not wanting to put anything off (a turkey-time resolution) — we hurried to the hospital to visit a dear friend. I, having moved our dinner hour ahead in order to execute a fast get-away, DID get the kitchen cleared afterwards. BUT — as for the quick-order chef herself — w-e-l-l, she sorta went come-as-you-are fashion (in her grubbies, to be more precise.) And it was at a time when the hair (the hair, particularly) was a fright — too long (letting it grow out); dark roots (letting it grow out); frizzled (letting it get rained upon.)

All in all, yours truly did not look terribly presentable (even the emergency room staff would have done a double take.)

So, we popped in on our poor suspecting patient and, lo and behold, he had another guest. And, oh dear — there was the epitome of fashion from stylishly coiffed hair, little kid gloves, 14 k. jewelry, cashmere coat. And I KNEW her... and had not seen her for EONS ... and the look on her face clearly stated that she wasn't quite sure I was who she THOUGHT I was.

I just wanted to pull my head (tortoise fashion) right down into my stretched out crew neck, pull my chipped nails up into the equally sloppy sleeves and do a fast disappering act. Woe is me!

Wanna bet I'll NEVER run into her again? At least never when I'm feeling the teeniest bit presentable. I AM giving her the dubious honors tho of thinking that she, too, has been through one of those gawdawful times and, hopefully, she was eyeing me and thinking "lord, I know just how she feels; it's happened to me, too!"

At least that's what I hope she was thinking!

— — — —

CHEERS: to the clever ad people who came up with the "Inconvenience, Incorporated" commercial which I catch on WJR whenever I'm 4-wheeling it. It's the cutest darn pitch and one just about all of us can identify with — the quarters that're never returned from empty pop machines; windshield wiper blades that smear when it's raining; wrong numbers at three in the morning, etc., etc.

JEERS: to the idiots who put together the obnoxious "Danny's" (food market) speil which not only grates on the eardrum but, again, makes the "typical American housewife" sound like a candidate for the looney bin.

LOOKING FOR SOMETHING for those folks on your Christmas list — the ones, who supposedly, "have everything"?

One of the best ideas for these economy-geared, fuel-saving winter days is an electric mattress pad. And particularly so if the person to receive it suffers from leg cramps, back ailments or (and hubbies will love me for this) — cold, icy feet.

It's not really necessary to have a hypochondriac in mind for this particular gift either; it's just a wonderfully soothing and toasty item to present ANYone. And the pads come with dual controls for those interested in double beds.

For the older-folks-at-home, how about a really good magnifying glass (I'm not hinting, kids, I have TWO, remember?) Or how about gift certificates to Grandma or Grandpa's favorite restaurant, tickets to a concert, hockey game, ice show, whatever.

Or what about a gift-of-the-month booklet you can make up yourself with coupons promising, for instance, a window washing bee for April . . . special casseroles during January . . . transportation (any month) to the doctor, dentist, meeting, church . . . lawn care for July . . . pots of soup for chilly February . . . offers to grocery shop for November . . . gift shop for December.

There are just all sorts of good ideas to come up with, offering your own services and THAT seems to be what the elderly need more than cologne, hankies, earrings or ties. Just give it a little thought for your own particular man, woman or couple and you'll be amazed at how pleased your "homemade" gift will make someone.

— — — —

ATTENTION all Robert Ludlum fans. Listening to WJR enroute home recently (and daydreaming) I happened to catch his name and the fact that our "our favorite writer" (of espionage and intrigue) also pens his stuff under the pseudonym "Jonathon Ryder". Any of you happen to have read any books with that credit line? If so, give me a call — I've not as yet checked out the library and I AM curious (aren't you?)

IT WAS GREAT FUN looking back over feature articles written some dozen years back when my Cooks of the Month stories were a weekly feature in the Suburban Living section (then the "Women's Pages".) A call from a 'potpourri' reader prompted digging through the files at home in search of a dessert recipe she requested.

"I clipped out the Praline Holiday Pie recipe years back when you ran the cooks series but now, when I want it for Thanksgiving, I can't find it anywhere," lamented the caller. "By any chance can you look up the recipe and call me?"

Well, since it IS such an excellent pie and one that's in my own collection, I didn't have to consult the "morgue's" bound issues. After doing my "homework", though, I discovered that my office mail the next day included the very same pie (complete with photo) my caller had requested. It's elsewhere in this section so just get out your scissors (and all the ingredients) Romulus friend.

Getting back to how enjoyable it was leafing through the "cook" clippings — there was Leona Van Buhler (our C. of C. neighbor) pictured with a little girl of four who's now a senior and assistant drum major at BHS; Stephie Box with a then-highschool freshman daughter; Mary Kosin with her little ones, now almost all grown; Imogene Pence with a highchair bound infant (now 14?); and Glenna Farrugia and her "little" twins.

Still others whose homes the late Bill Balogh (our photographer) and I visited each week included Madeleine Muse, Larinda Ritter, Betty Chie (and her hundreds of cookbooks), Larry Gray (one of two men we spotlighted), Betty Thom, Gladys Mast . . . .

. . . Phyllis Gray, Dorothy Skszek, Pat Gamble, Lucy Remus, Verdys Shephard, Ethel Lovette, Shirley Straub, Mary Dahlstrom, Frances McAtee and several who've since moved or passed away.

Those were fun days and Bill and I literally ate our way through Belleville and Romulus — oh-h, those cooks!

During a brief business session, Mrs. Ethlyn Rohmsdale was appointed to fill out the term of treasurer, a vacancy caused by the recent death of Mrs. Helen Herrmann.

The Ways and Means Chairman Mrs. H. Randall, reported that there were a number of calendars still to be sold.

Following adjournment the group spent the remainder of the day browsing and shopping throughout the village and at Bronner's where the Christmas spirit was quickly kindled.

New Arrival

Her grandparents are Carol Cockrum of Westland, Russell Driggett Jr. of Rapid City and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin McCollum.

The new sprig on the family tree also has great-grandparents — Mrs. Eva Button of Traverse City, Mrs. Russell Driggett Sr. of Rapid City and Francis Luker of Plymouth.

The great-great grandparents are Lucy Boudreau who lives in Massachusetts and Mr. and Mrs. George Underhill of Rapid City.

Music Hall will present 'The Babes in Toyland'

During Thanksgiving week, Detroit's Music Hall Center will turn into a magical kingdom as Victor Herbert's enchanting classic comes to life in a new musical extravaganza, "The Babes In Toyland."

Featuring giant-sized toy characters, actors, singers and dancers, "The Babes" present 12 shows Nov. 20-25.

In an updated version of "Babes In Toyland," Sid and Marty Krofft (creators of "Donny and Marie Show," "H.R. Punnstuf" and others) have produced a multi-media spectacular with elaborate sets, dazzling costumes and mind-boggling special effects.

This contemporary interpretation introduces The Babes as a talented rock group of three attractive young men looking for their first big break. In their travels, The Babes stumble onto Toyland Inc., a floundering amusement park. Their interest in the park (and in Mary, the attractive granddaughter of the Master Toymaker) brings about a series of events that reawakens the magic of Toyland with its amazing living toys.

The Babes meet everyone from Mother Goose and the Evil Barnaby to Jack and Jill and Peter Pumpkin Eater. They are entertained by an animal orchestra and the Bo Peep Ballet Company of dancing sheep. The Babes also find themselves surrounded by the mystery of The Dark Forest with its gigantic living trees and the chilling sounds of Barnaby's ghostly castle.

The producers of "The Babes" have designed what they call "a cross between the classical music of "The Nutcracker Ballet" and the contemporary musical look of "The Wiz." Evening performances of this family show are at 8 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday and 6:30 p.m. on Sunday. Matinees are scheduled for Thanksgiving Day at 12 Noon, Nov. 23 and 24 at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., and Nov. 25 at 2 p.m. Tickets range from $4.50 to $12.50 with discounts for children, 12 and under, and are available at the Music Hall box office, 350 Madison, Detroit, or by calling 963-7680. Box office hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

'Godspell'

The popular soft-rock musical review "Godspell," based on the Gospel according to St. Matthew, will open for a 2-week run at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 25 at Wayne State University's Studio Theater. Appearing in the production are Paul Maisano as Jesus and Kathleen Brant (top) and Clara Onie Smith as two of his disciples. For information on the performances contact the university theater box office at 577-2972.

MBT stages 'A Life'

Terence Kilburn, artistic director of the Meadow Brook Theatre, has announced a change in the 1980 program today. David Mamet's New York hit, "A Life in the Theatre," which has recently become available for production in this area, will be given its Detroit premiere by Meadow Brook this season.

"A Life in the Theatre" was acclaimed "... a comic masterpiece" and "... a glorious new comedy" by the leading New York critics. It will open at Meadow Brook on Feb. 28 and play through March 23.

Eugene O'Neill's drama, "A Moon for the Misbegotten," originally scheduled to be presented on those dates, will now play from Jan. 3 through Jan. 27 in place of the previously announced "Entertaining Mr. Sloane."

In making this announcement Kilburn said: "David Mamet is one of the finest young playwrights writing for the theatre today. Meadow Brook is delighted to be able to present this brilliant work to southeastern Michigan audiences."

The balance of the Meadow Brook Theatre season will play in the following order — "Of Mice and Men," through Dec. 2; "Charley's Aunt," Dec. 6-Dec. 30; "A Moon for the Misbegotten," Jan. 3-Jan. 27; "A Summer Remembered," Jan. 31-Feb. 24; "A Life in the Theatre," Feb. 28-Mar. 23; "Night Must Fall," Mar. 27-Apr. 20; "You Can't Take it With You", Apr. 24-May 18.

Meadow Brook Hall 'dresses' for Yule

One of Michigan's most breathtaking historic homes invites the public to help celebrate its golden anniversary and at the same time help preserve the magnificent structure for future generations.

"A Golden Christmas at Meadow Brook Hall" opens Nov. 28, through Dec. 2, on the campus of Oakland University in Rochester, where major rooms of the 100-room Tudor-style mansion will be lavishly dressed in holiday finery for daily tours 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. (10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Wednesday).

Proceeds from the annual Christmas walk are used for preservation of the hall, and all creative talents, floral decorations and production efforts are donated by florists, special exhibitors and volunteers from the Wayne - Oakland-Macomb county area.

"This type of community support has made it possible for Meadow Brook Hall to survive as a major historic landmark at a time when many others are being demolished," said Mrs. Roger Smith, who with her husband is chairing the Christmas event. "The hall is one of the nation's finest and most carefully preserved examples of Tudor Revival architecture, and its inclusion this year in the National Register of Historic Sites gives us another reason to celebrate."

Meadow Brook Hall is the former home of Alfred and Matilda Dodge Wilson. She was the widow of auto pioneer John Dodge. Completed in 1929 at the cost of $4 million, the home still contains original furnishings and art works. In addition to the Christmas tours, the hall is open to the public from 1 to 5 p.m. every Sunday year-round.

For further information, call 377-3140.

Survival surveyed

A program dealing with wildlife winter survival will be presented at the nature center of Kensington Metropark near Milford on Nov. 25 at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Naturalist Steve Horn will use slides, study skins, and a short walk to describe some of the adaptations and behavioral tactics used by some wild animals to help them survive the winter season.

But one element that appears in all outstanding players, according to coaches, is consistency. They are consistent each time they take to the gridiron. You can expect them to play their hearts out no matter if they are out in front by 50 points or trailing by as much.

And in all 25 players nominated for The Associated Newspapers' All-Area High School Football Class A Team that one ingredient — consistency — is present.

The Class A Offensive Roster honors 12 players, led by Livonia Churchill's meticulous quarterback Bill Keller. Keller led Coach Ken Kaestner's Chargers to the Western Six Conference championship in a year when most expected the Chargers to collapse.

The backfield features Glenn's Scott Thorton, Wayne Memorial's Don Shumpert and Belleville's Rick Winekoff.

BLAIR, a 5-9, 175-pound senior put in overtime for Coach Floyd Carter's Zebras, working on offense and defense. A slotback and tight end who is an excellent blocker and fine pass receiver, Blair grabbed 14 receptions on a team that basically stuck to the ground. He accounted for 220 yards, an average of 15 yards per catch. He also scored two touchdowns. On defense, Blair, a halfback, picked off two passes, collected 55 solo tackles and had 33 assists.

PRZYSIECKI, a 6-2, 190-pound senior who has been a two-year starter for Coach Armand Vigna's Patriots caught 13 passes for 260 yards for a 20.0 average per catch. Tim also scored two touchdowns — one a diving catch that won the Thurston game. He is credited with 20 solo tackles and 59 assists.

"Przysiecki was a very steady player for us and was a threat to catch that pass that would win the game," noted Coach Vigna.

BLACK was a tri-captain on John Glenn's team this year who earned all-league recognition in the Northwest Suburban Conference for his outstanding play. A 6-0, 205 pound senior who makes his presence felt on the line, Gary is also an excellent wrestler and trackman.

"Black is a fierce competitor," says Glenn Coach Chuck Gordon. "He is a hard worker, and a great leader. He is one of those players who got better each week."

LANCASTER is another one of those hard-nosed gridders who exemplifies the excellence of the fine crop of players produced traditionally in this area. A hefty 200-pounder who is considered one of the best blockers on the team, Lancaster started for the Zebras the past two years.

"Mike has that great second effort in sustaining blocks," said Coach Carter. "He's the type of player that opponent's learn to respect very quickly."

MOONEY is the lone representative from the Plymouth Canton team that had its share of problems this season. But none will blame Mooney for the hardships that befell the Chiefs.

"Paul has the best lineman techniques that I have seen in a player in a long time," Canton coach Dave Schuele said. "He is a steady and very intelligent player who we used either at the guard or center. If we had a few more like him, we would have had a fine season."

RIZE is the only junior to crack the senior-dominated All-Area offensive line-up. And for good reason. He is considered one of the finest all-around athletes to wear a Wayne athletic jersey. Tough when it counts, the 6-0, 185-pound guard makes things happen on the field.

"Bruce has so much potential it's incredible," Carter said. "We're expecting a lot from him a year from now. He's just a fine athlete."

STAMPER, a solid player for Coach Mike Colletta at Belleville High, earned an 80 percent blocking efficiency rating for the year. He did everything for the Tigers, including kicking off.

"Dave is an 'iron-player'," Coach Colletta said. "He can go either way and there are only a handful of players I have seen that can block the way this kid can."

HALL, a two-year starter at offensive center for the Rockets, is a very smart football player who recognizes defenses and changes blocking assignments up front to adjust to them.

"Russ may very well be the best center we've had at John Glenn," said Coach Gordon. "And he'll be a tough one to replace."

SHUMPERT was the back who pulled Wayne through when teammate Rick Rogers was injured early in the season. The 6-1, 195-pound senior rushed for 572 yards and crossed enemy goal lines six times. He averaged 5.2 yards per carry.

"The opposition knew they had to stop Rick and Don to bottle up our offense," said Carter, "and these kids could be relied upon to get the job done. Shumpert has the talent to go on and play for a college team and people around here will hear about him. Of course, we're very happy that Rogers will be back next year."

THORNTON was the key to the Glenn backfield and his quickness kept the Westlanders in all of their games this season. A two-year starter, Scott was picked for all-league recognition as a runningback and played both fullback and tailback for the Rockets. He pounded out 740 yards on the year.

"Scott had the quickness to give our offense the big play threat that is so important in high school football," Coach Gordon said.

WINEKOFF is a familiar name to these pages. A wrestler who has earned international recognition, Rick generated most of the yardage on a Belleville team that had its hands full in the tough Suburban 8 Conference. With a 5.2 average per carry, Winekoff was named to the conference's honor roll on offense. He was equally potent on defense as a middle guard.

"Rick was probably one of the best two-way players in the league," said Colletta. "He ran hard on offense and played tough on defense."

KELLER is a rare talent. After that devastating opening game loss to Dearborn Fordson — a team ranked No. 1 most of the year in Class A — Bill rallied his teammates back to win the next seven games before losing to another tough opponent, Livonia Stevenson, a state semi-finalist.

"He's the kind of leader you can trust to get the job done out there," Kaestner said. "I didn't expect to see this team go as far, but Keller showed us that anything is possible when you work hard for it."

Bo and the big bad press

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

The unorthodox way Ohio State beat Michigan last Saturday — a blocked punt that paved the way for the winning touchdown — will probably occupy the minds of the learned and not-too-learned grid scholars in the days and months ahead.

Not because the Buckeyes caught U-M Coach Bo Schembechler with his pants down — no, afterall, a kid reporter from Ann Arbor told him that his kicking game needed a boost when the season was only three games old.

But the Wolverines — and Bo's 18-15 destruction — before a regular season record crowd of 106,255 fans pointed out a fact that he, Schembechler, didn't want to admit publicly. That fact is basic to all humans and unknown to any other form of life.

That we, as humans, can error.

And, unwilling to accept the fact, or having accepted the fact that his team's kicking game was too fragile to tamper with this late in the season, Bo resigned himself to a strategy that omitted that potent weapon in football — the punt.

He was so touchy on the subject of his team's kicking game that one dared not comment, bring it up or joke about it in his presence. And when you take "the fun" out of sports, as Schembechler is doing, it becomes fatal.

A job becomes a job becomes a job. And suddenly you're bullying people (and later regretting it as the Denny McLains, the Woody Hayeses of the world find out).

Coaches wonder why writers take shots at them. Believe it or not, the writers usually don't take the first shot. When someone whom the press has lavished its attention upon suddenly comes out swinging, don't expect the press to duck.

Schembechler began the sunny afternoon off with another surprise that must have startled a lot of folks in the press box. He started freshman Rich Hewlett instead of John Wangler at quarterback. That strategy, he hoped, would give the Wolverines an option.

And Hewlett, a member of the All-Area football team who starred at Plymouth Salem, looked good. He went to the sidelines with an ankle injury in the second quarter.

Hewlett may not know it, however, but he may find his name in the Guinness Sports Book of Records. Can you name another freshman quarterback in the country or world who made his varsity debut before 106,255 fans?

Cage bonanza at Romulus High

Rolling right along...

There's a big basketball doubleheader planned at Romulus High School on November 30 which will feature some of the outstanding cage talent of yesteryear from Inkster and Romulus highs.

"We're raising money for our basketball program," said Romulus High Coach Rod Hanna, "and we've managed to put together a doubleheader that would pit former stars from both schools."

Inkster will be represented by all-staters Eartha Faust and Dwayne Fox while Romulus will suit up Nate Davis, Wendell and Herb Buckley, Bill Anderson and Emery Long and many others.

Schedules, please

The Associated Newspapers' Sports Staff is as excited about the upcoming winter sports season as coaches, teams and fans.

And we'll continue to give our teams the finest coverage in the state. However, to keep tabs on who plays when and where we'll need schedules.

So if the high school athletic directors would oblige, we'll do the rest.

ANP's team can do it

Though most of the ink may go to the offensive backfield, it's the defense that decides the outcome of most games.

In the pit or up in the air, those who sweat it out to stop the glory-bound ballcarriers have to be ready. And The Associated Newspapers have the men who can form that perfect defense.

The area has an outstanding crop of defensive halfbacks who have earned their All-Area badges of merit. They are Greg Walters (John Glenn), Barry Riddick (Belleville), Ron Schueneman (Livonia Churchill), Steve Droz (Livonia Franklin and Ken Liedel (John Glenn).

WILSON personifies the type of defensive player on this year's mythical squad. He is tough and stubborn when it comes to giving up ground and is ready to capitalize upon his opponent's mistakes. The 6-3, 190 pound senior was an all-Great Lakes 8 Conference selection after presenting impeccable credentials which included four fumble recoveries, six sacks of the quarterback, 38 solo tackles and 25 assists.

"Bill was a two-way starter for us," said Wayne Coach Floyd Carter, "and he led our team in tackles most of the year. He also received our headhunter award of the year."

DYE is a sturdy 6-3, 205 pound senior whose sheer physical appearance intimidated the opposition and made them think about running the other way. Though he missed a couple of games early in the campaign, he came back strong and helped the Westlanders salvage a respectable season.

"Bill is a very enthusiastic player who loves to hit people out there on the field," Coach Chuck Gordon said. "We know we could depend upon him in crucial situations, and he did an exceptional job for his team."

BIGGERSTAFF also checks in at 205 pounds. His agility helped to trigger the downfall of many a ballcarrier. He had a total 55 tackles, 30 of which were initial hits. He also recovered three fumbles and caused two others. Add to that the fact he tossed quarterbacks for huge losses three times, is it no wonder that he was a serious candidate for all-league considerations as well?

Like most of his teammates, Biggerstaff saw double duty, so he was constantly on the gridiron. He is excellent collegiate material.

KNIGHT is only one of the two Romulus High gridders who was nominated for All-Area distinction. It was hard keeping him off the coveted team. As an offensive tackle, he was a strong blocker, able to get downfield fast and he opened up the holes for the Eagle runningbacks. On defense, he was a terror. Knight had 52 solo tackles and 24 assists. He also recovered a pair of mishandled balls and had one sack of the quarterback.

A two-year letterwinner, Coach Don Foley says of this fine athlete: "that he gave us consistency — 100 percent — throughout the year. He came back strong after breaking his ankle early in the previous year."

LOHMAN was a starter for Franklin since breaking into Coach Armand Vigna's lineup as a sophomore. He is also only one of two juniors being honored on this year's All-Area team. An all-Northwest Suburban Conference selection, the 6-0, 170-pound middle linebacker is credited with 28 solo tackles and also had a phenomenal 101 assists.

"Ron is a player of great potential," said Vigna. "He definitely will be a major college prospect next year as a senior."

DUPLESSIS was Wayne's second leading tackler. The durable 5-9, 175-pound senior piled up 55 initial hits and collected 20 assists which included four quarterback sacks, three caused fumbles and a fumble recovery.

"I feel that Gary was one of the unsung heroes of our team," Coach Carter pointed out. "When a player gets out there week after week and does his job — well, what else can a coach expect from a player? We're going to miss him a year from now."

CLEMENS helped perpetuate Churchill's tradition of producing excellent defensive players. A linebacker who could smell out the action and the ball, Steve legitimately qualifies as one of the top Charger defenders in the relatively short history of that Livonia-based high school.

"Steve has a tremendous attitude," said Coach Ken Kaestner, "and that rubbed off to the other players. He is a fine leader."

GREEN doubled as a fullback when he wasn't holding down one of the linebacker's slots for Romulus's Eagles. As a ballcarrier he racked up 562 yards in 162 attempts and scored seven touchdowns. As a linebacker, Shawn was credited with 50 solo tackles and 31 assists. He had three fumble recoveries and three sacks of the QB.

"Shawn was the heart of our ball club," offered Coach Don Foley. "He was captain of this year's team and he proved just how sturdy he was by surviving a campaign that was filled with frustration as well as glory."

WALTERS was John Glenn's leader when it came to pass interceptions. The fast-moving defensive back was named by the coaches to the Northwest Suburban team after showing off his versatility both in the defensive as well as offensive backfield.

"Greg played on every specialty team for us," said Coach Chuck Gordon, "and he worked as hard as any football player we've had or I have coached here."

RIDDICK is considered Belleville's hardest hitter. A transfer student from Orchard Lake, Barry broke into the Tiger line-up as a sophomore and kept the job for three years.

"He is one of those versatile players you love to coach," said Mike Colletta, "Barry is a strong offensive runner and a sturdy all-around player who could play just about anywhere in the backfield."

SCHUENEMAN cruised the Churchill secondary as a jet pilot would looking for a Red rocket. The 6-0, 165-pound senior was so good at his job. In fact he was picked the Chargers' No. 1 defensive halfback. He's a good, solid college prospect and coaches learned early that is would be foolish to throw into his zone. Ron proved how good he was by intercepting five passes, and running two of them back for touchdowns.

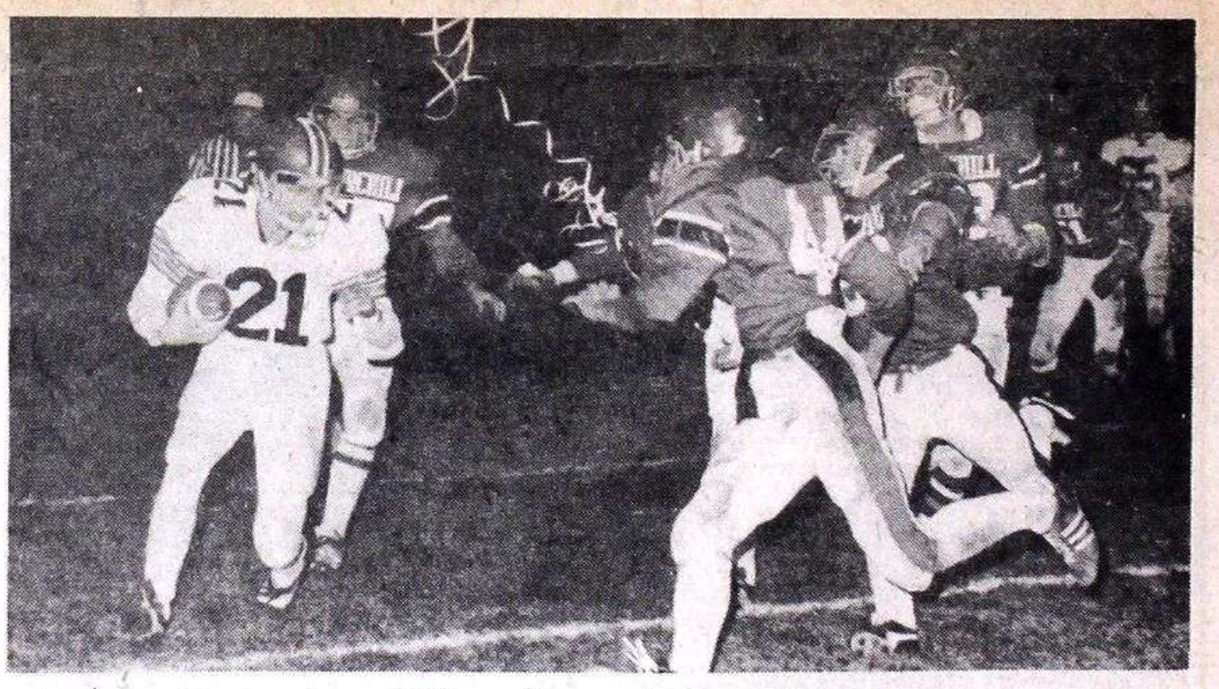
"A player like Ron can come up with the key play," Kaestner said. "There is no limit to what this kid can do offensively or defensively."

DROZ was also a two-way performer for Franklin. As a ballcarrier he chalked up 341 yards on 55 tries for a total of 6.8 per attempt. On defense he was credited with six unassisted tackles and 25 assists. He scored two touchdowns and Plymouth Salem won't forget the name — Droz scored twice against the Rocks, giving the Patriots the opening game victory.

"Steve is one of those kids who plays past their potential," said Vigna. "He is not our fastest or biggest player — only one of our best."

LIEDEL tri-captained the Rockets at Glenn this year and proved to be one of those rare talents who could move into the quarterback slot, play tailback, and then come off of offense and take up a defensive position.

"Ken was a fine leader and a real team player as evidenced by the fact that he changed positions willingly to help the team," said Coach Gordon."



The last hurrah

With this week's edition, the 1979 high school football season comes to an end at The Associated Newspapers. But don't go away. There's still a lot coming up like basketball, swimming, wrestling, hockey and bowling. Athletic Directors in the area who have not mailed in their winter sports schedules are urged to do so at the earliest possible time. Our sports desk is also ready for action on Sundays between 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Warriors win CYO cage title

When you lose four games you don't expect to win championships, but St. Anthony's of Belleville survived the losses to earn the CYO "B" Division girls' basketball title.

Winning five of their nine games lifted coaches Howard McIntosh and Bob Bury's Warriors team to the championship.

The champs wound up with a 6-5 over-all record on the season. They also finished second in post-season tournament competition.

Members of the championship team included Lynette Babik, AnneMarie Bury, Carolyn Walters, Marilyn Walters and Michele Donnelly.

Congratulations to All-Area Football Players

This unique four-step process provides permanent protection for your car's finish, ending twice-a-year waxing. It involves cleaning the finish, buffing it to its maximum luster, applying a "thermoplastic polymer" that actually bonds itself to your car's finish and a final buffing of the bonded finish. Plus, your dealer backs up this process with an annual maintenance program. So, you can be sure of a beautiful finish that will last and last.

MR. AND MRS. TERRY W. RAY

Calvary Baptist Church is setting for wedding

The Rev. Weldon W. Spracklen conducted the late afternoon ceremony in a candelight setting before an altar decorated with bouquets of gladiolas, carnations, chrysanthemums and baby's breath.

Special musical selections for the ceremony included "You Take My Breath Away," sung by Andy Pugh of Wayne, and "We've Only Just Begun" and "The Lord's Prayer," sung by Sunny Sites of West Virginia.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Richards of New Boston, was given in marriage by her father. For her wedding, she chose a Mike Benet original gown of white chiffon. It was styled with a high collar of antique lace over sheer. Lace also trimmed the capelet sleeves and the fitted bodice that tapered to a skirt featuring Austrian-type drapery over double flounces and ending in a brief train. The skirt of the gown was draped over a hoop. A lace headpiece held the bride's triple-tiered veil and she carried a cascade of white carnations, baby's breath and yellow roses.

Attending her sister as maid of honor, Bonnie Richards wore a gown of yellow chiffon over taffeta styled with cape sleeves on a fitted bodice accented by a back-bustle. A white picture hat and a bouquet of yellow daisies, white carnations, rust mums and baby's breath, with white ribbon streamers, completed her costume.

The bridesmaids were Denise Holtzman, Laura Manlos, Robbie Patrick and Carole Ray. Their gowns were yellow and white print over yellow taffeta. Lace accented the v-neckline and elbow sleeves. White picture hats and bouquets identical to that of the honor attendant, but tied with yellow ribbons, completed their outfits.

The flower girl was Shannon Hogg. She wore a long gown of white chiffon over taffeta and carried a miniature bouquet. The rings were carried by Brandon Richards, who was in a miniature white tuxedo.

The bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ray of Wilshire Parkway, Westland, asked Don Staples of Wayne to serve as his best man. Ushers were Ron Staples, Terry Martin, Erik Athnos and Mark Richards.

Relatives, friends honor C. McNetts on golden wedding

Relatives and friends, some 140 in all, gathered Nov. 10 for a party celebrating the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton McNett of Romulus. Given by the couple's four sons and their wives, the reception was held at UAW Local 735 in Canton.

On hand to welcome guests from Texas, Ohio and neighboring cities were Clinton McNett and his wife Delores of Romulus; Emerry McNett and his wife Nora from Taylor; Kenneth McNett and his wife Evelyn of Wayne and Phillip McNett and his wife Libby of Romulus. Fifteen grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren are also party of the McNett clan.

Clinton McNett took Myrtle Colber of Birdseye, Ind. as his bride on Nov. 14, 1929 in Detroit. Residents of 13901 Hannan Rd., Romulus, they have been members of the community for some 41 years.

Retiring in 1965 from the Ford Motor Company's Rouge plant, Mr. McNett now enjoys light farming and "bugging his wife." Mrs. McNett spends her leisure time with plants and antiques. Both are members of the Wesleyan Methodist Church in Wayne.

Decorations for the party were arranged by the couple's granddaughters who used a gold and white decorative scheme and centerpieces of assorted fall flowers. One of the granddaughters, Carol Kessler of Belleville, made and decorated the white and gold wedding cake. Mrs. Grace Bower of Romulus, a close friend of the honored pair, was reasponsible for drawing up the guest list.
